Hoover Urges Safety On Highways

TARIFF BILL TO BE SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Approval of Flexible Provision Clears Way for Final Action

VETO POWER LIMITED

Hoover Has Way on Debuture but Falls Short of Other Big Aim

Washington (CPA)—President Hoover will sign the pending tariff bill, his approval of the flexible tariff provision, as drafted by the conference committee, clears, the way for action, though of course there will be a week or so of debate in the senate before the measure goes to the White House for signature.

While the president has not participated in the making of individual rates and schedules, he has had full opportunity to do so. His wishes have been met on those sections in which he did take a part in the discussion.

Mr. Hoover saved himself from a critical situation by accepting the flexible provisions as listed by the conference committee. Instead of precipitating a new issue, which seemed probable Saturday night, Mr. Hoover frankly did not like the phraseology of one section of the flexible provision, which would limit him in his decisions to the cost of production basis when considering the recommendations of the tariff commission.

As the provisions now are framed, the president can veto the recommendation of the tariff commission only if he does not think it necessary to equalize differences in the cost of production. It was thought that he should have the power to veto a recommendation simply on the ground of public policy. It was pointed out to the president that congress had not and would not delegate such broad discretionary powers to a chief executive, inasmuch as under the constitution the tariff-making power rests with the congress alone.

DEPENDS ON CONGRESS Already the supreme court of the United States has upheld the validity of the flexible tariff idea, but wholly within the limits set by congress itself as a delegation of administrative authority. Somewhat the same rule prevails with reference to the rates for transportation fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

JURY DECIDES WHETHER MAN'S DEAD OR ALIVE

Chicago (CP)—Law, not medical science, was to tell today whether Ralph A. Anderson is dead or alive. Mrs. Orpha Anderson has contended her husband is dead; that he was drowned in 1919. An insurance company, has maintained that Anderson did not die 11 years ago but merely disappeared to avoid domestic and business worries. A jury last night returned a sealed verdict which Judge Joseph B. David was to open today.

ARCHBISHOP OF RHEIMS REPORTED NEAR DEATH

Rheims, France (CP)—Cardinal Archbishop Luçon of Rheims is lying at death's doors with bronchitis. The last sacraments were administered today in the presence of the vicar general of his diocese. The ecclesiastical authorities here are in tears at his condition, which, since he is 87 years old, does not give much hope of recovery.

Appleton's Increasing Population

also reflects itself in steadily increasing demand for rental properties. Here's a typical example— Mrs. Wm. Mountain, 315 E. Washington St. just completed running a classified advertisement for a furnished kitchenette apartment. She was besieged with inquiries—20 calls or over indicated the tremendous demand for this sort of rental property. Homes, apartments, furnished rooms, and cottages lake property is in great demand by renters at this season of the year. Find your tenant with a well written Post-Crescent Classified Adv.

DENIES SUIT TO FREE MISS S. DEMOCRACY FROM J. TOM HEFLIN

Birmingham, Ala. (CP)—A 1,000 word formal petition asking the Jefferson county chancery court to divorce "Miss Southern Democracy" from J. Thomas Hefflin, was offered for filing yesterday by A. Berkowitz, a Birmingham attorney, but was denied a place in the court record by Judge William M. Walker.

"Witty and clever, but beneath the dignity of the court," said the judge after scanning the document which among other things charged Hefflin with abandoning and said "the no longer loved and cared for his pet dog, but brought into their happy home an ungainly elephant to which he devoted his time and attention."

The "defendant" was referred to only as J. Thomas Hefflin and the petition made no mention of his position as United States senator.

DEPLORES BIG LOSS OF LIFE IN ACCIDENTS

President Has Praise for Work Accomplished by National Conference

Washington (CP)—Opening the Third National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, President Hoover told the assembled delegates today their accident prevention is a service to the entire world.

The president deplored the great loss of human life in street and highway accidents and described the toll of suffering among surviving victims as of national concern.

The text of his address follows:

"The great loss of human life in street and highway accidents and the toll of suffering among surviving victims, is a national concern of grave importance. You thus are gathered here to consider a humanitarian and economic problem which touches every man, woman and child in the land."

"The last national street and highway safety conference, held in 1925, carefully worked out a program of measures for improvement of traffic conditions. It was then unanimously agreed that responsibility for carrying out these recommendations should lie with the state and local communities, that voluntary organizations also should lend their cooperation locally, and that the national conference should reconvene only if need for it should appear."

"In the years that have intervened there has been much effort to better traffic conditions, but the accident rate nevertheless continues to rise because the increasing volume of traffic outruns our efforts. Without these earlier efforts, conditions today would be much worse, but still the steadily increasing traffic has outrun all measures of safety."

NECESSITY RECOGNIZED

"This conference has therefore been called in response to a widespread recognition by governors, state and municipal officials, and associations devoted to the subject, of need for a new appraisal of the situation in the light of experience and for the determination of further courses of action upon which all can agree."

"It is encouraging to know that in some states and localities, where remedies have been actively applied, the accident rate has been curbed and traffic congestion has been somewhat relieved. The way has thus been pioneered."

"But universal improvement can come only gradually and through continuous and combined effort in many different fields and nationwide scale."

"The members of this conference, working out further remedies through the best qualified judgment, are rendering an invaluable service. It is the application of massed intelligence to the solution of a particularly difficult problem."

"The federal government can properly assist in securing the spread of information and ideas and coordination of activities, but it still remains the fact, nevertheless, that the state and local authorities, with the cooperation of the public, must be responsible for the practical application of remedial measures. The remedies developed by this conference must therefore rest for their final effectiveness upon the action of the state and the communities, supported in every possible way by the great body of citizenship."

Five Nabbed, $300,000 In Gems Seized

Prisoners Believed to Be Members of International Jewel Thieves Ring

New York (CP)—Police today held jewels valued at $300,000, as the result of a raid on a room in the Hotel Commodore in which a woman and four men were arrested. Brooches, bracelets and rings set with diamonds, rubies and other gems were seized.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney said he considered the prisoners to be members of an international gang of jewel thieves and the gems part of $1,000,000 worth of loot which they have taken in the last few months.

Lieutenant of Detectives Richard Oliver and Detective D. R. Ryan, who had been trailing one of the suspects for nine weeks, smashed the locked door of the hotel room yesterday and found the five sitting about a table on which the jewelry was spread. The most valuable of the 26 pieces was a ring set with an oblong diamond of 17 carats valued at $40,000.

As the detectives entered, covering the gang with their pistols, one of the men made a motion as though throwing something out of the window and the woman stuffed a slip of paper into her mouth and swallowed it.

Commissioner Mulrooney said he believed the jewels represented part of the loot in robberies of two Miami Beach, Fla., hotels last February. David J. Donnelly of Pittsburgh, complained of the theft of a large quantity of jewelry from the Blackstone hotel on Feb. 2, and Louis W. Herman of New York said he was robbed of jewels in the Hotel Ambassador on Feb. 26.

The prisoners gave their names as James W. Watson, 40, Hilda Carter, 34; George Cole, 42; William J. Conner, 41, of Buffalo, and Jack Rosen, 35. Watson and the woman refused to tell their addresses, Cole and Rosen gave New York addresses.

Police also expressed the belief that the loot might include some of the jewelry taken in the holdup and robbery of the jewelry establishment of George Mauboussin on Park-ave, Jan. 17, 1929, and the robbery of a pre-nuptial dinner in the home of Charles P. Carson at Snyder, N. Y. Gems valued at $500,000 were taken by four men from the Mauboussin establishment and the jewelry stripped from guests at the Carson dinner were worth $100,000.

SAYS TARIFF BIG HELP TO AGRICULTURE

Smoot Quotes Figures to Show Bill Written Chiefly for Farmers

Washington (CP)—A Democratic point of order against the new flexible provision of the tariff bill was raised today as Senator Smoot laid the final draft of the measure before the senate was lengthy defense of its provisions.

Washington (CP)—Calling up the conference report on the tariff bill in the senate, Senator Smoot quoted statistics today to show the measure was "written primarily for agriculture."

Based on 1928 import values, he said it would bring in revenue amounting to $520,436,250, against $522,619,283 under the present law, an increase of $107,806,937.

"On the basis of actual experience in 1928," the finance committee chairman said, "it is evident that protective rates to agriculture have been increased four times as much as the protective rates to industry as a whole."

"The bill stands on its merits in appealing for a final vote," he continued, adding that it "goes as far as it is possible to go in protecting agriculture in its home market, and yet not prejudice the industrial payoffs which are such an important factor in the size and profitability of that home market."

Defects which have become apparent in the tariff act of 1922 owing to changes in competitive conditions, he said, have been "remedied" in the bill.

Smoot said the bill carried $88 increased rates and 235 decreased rates. 75 items transferred from the dutiable to the free list, and 45 articles taken from the free to the protective category. The average ad valorem equivalent of all existing

BUSINESS MAN IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Services for David Brettschneider to Be Held Thursday

David Brettschneider, 60, 312 N. Morrison-st., president and treasurer of the Brettschneider Furniture Co., died at 9 o'clock Monday night after an illness of about eight weeks during which he was confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Mr. Brettschneider's health began to fail early this year and in March he was taken to the hospital, where for a time it appeared he might recover. He gradually weakened, however, and a few days ago it became evident that the end was near.

The body will rest in state at the Brettschneider Funeral parlors, 106 Wednesday noon until about 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon when it will be taken to First Congregational church where funeral services are to be held at 2:30. Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the church, and Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church, will conduct the funeral rites. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery and services at the grave will be conducted by the Odd Fellows.

Mr. Brettschneider, dean of Appleton's furniture dealers and funeral director, was born in Appleton May 9, 1870, and spent all his life here. While still a young man he went to work for his father who established a furniture store in the building now occupied by L. E. Sugerman about 13 years ago and a few years later he and his brother Joseph were taken into partnership by their father and the Brettschneider Sons company was organized.

Following the death of the father Brettschneider about 35 years ago the sons carried on the business under the same name until the death of Joseph about 21 years ago when the name was changed to David Brettschneider. The present corporation, the Brettschneider Furniture Co., was organized in 1912 and the company moved to its present home about eight years ago.

Mr. Brettschneider for many years was active in the Wisconsin Funeral Directors association, serving as its president and he attended most of its conventions. He served many years as a member of the state board of examiners for embalmers and was on the board at the time of his death. He was a delegate to many national conventions of embalmers.

Mr. Brettschneider was a member of the Elks, Odd Fellows, Moose and B. P. O. Elks, and also of the Lions club. He was a director of the Citizens National bank.

Survivors are his widow, the former Nellie Kiers and two children, Mrs. Anna and Flora Brettschneider, both of Appleton.

TURNER TRIES TO SET EAST-TO-WEST RECORD

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. (CP)—Accompanied by Gilmore, his lion club mascot, Lieut. Col. Roosevelt Turner took off at 4:03 a. m. (E. S. T.) today on a one-stop flight to Los Angeles in an attempt to establish a new speed record from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The non-stop east-to-west record is 19 hours, 10 minutes, and 32 seconds, established by Captain Frank Hawks. There is no present one-stop record. Turner said he probably would make his stop at Wichita, Kas.

He took off in the same plane in which he recently failed to break the west-to-east non-stop record made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh plane. He carried 450 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil.

OSHKOSH NAMED NEXT HOST CITY FOR LIONS

Selection of one of these must be made by the post office department, probably on advice of George Vils

Methodist Moral Board Without Lobby Fund, Claim

PICKETT GOES ON STAND IN SENATE QUIZ

Says Tinkham's Charges Based on Misapprehension Regarding Board

Washington —(P)—Credit for the election of President Hoover was attributed to the churches and temperance organizations by Deets Pickett, representing the Methodist Board of Temperance, in testimony today before the senate lobby committee.

The statement, which appeared in one of the board's publications, read: "The bald truth is that the inefficiency of the Republican political organization in this campaign was startling."

"Except for the counsel of Senator Curtis, the Republican management was lacking in the advice of astute and experienced political leaders."

"The fight was won not by the Republican party, but by the churches, the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon league and other temperance organizations."

Washington —(P)—An assertion that none of the funds of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals have been expended for lobbying, was made before the senate lobby committee today by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the organization.

In the absence of Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board, Pickett took the committee witness stand to defend his organization against the charges of Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, that it had violated the principle of separation of church and state.

These charges, Pickett said were "based upon a total misapprehension of the character of the board, its methods of work, the sources of its funds and the nature of its expenditures."

He explained that the funds received by the board were fixed by a ratio based upon "the total benevolent receipts of the church for connectional purposes" and that its support came from the world service commission, organized by the church to direct the work of six boards.

ONLY SMALL PERCENTAGE
"The current ratio of the board," he added, "is 1.5668 per cent of the total, so that our receipts may fairly be said to represent almost entirely the contributions of interested Methodists."

"The board of temperance, prohibition and public morals cannot receive and use in its entirety and contribution has been specifically designated as to use; and such designation must be to 'an approved project.'"

"No contributions has ever been made for political or 'lobbying' purposes, nor has any fund been used for such purpose."

"No such 'project' has ever been approved by the world service commission, nor would any such amount be tolerated by the board of managers of the board of temperance, by the world service commission, by the general conference, or by the opinion of the church."

Characterizing as "unjustified" Tinkham's charge that the board has violated the principle of separation of church and state, Pickett asserted:

BACKS DRY LAW

"It petitioned for the prohibition laws as it had a right to do under the constitution and it supports enforcement. Its representatives appear before the committees of the house and senate by invitation or at the board's request, when the interests of prohibition or a similar issue are involved."

"As it happens, such appearance is very infrequent and when it occurs is in cooperation with the representatives of other churches and dry organizations, composing the conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, which has a legislative committee on which the board is represented."

"Legislative petition is done under the direction of this cooperative body. Incidentally, the organization includes in its membership committees of many churches."

Referring to a charge by Tinkham that the board had violated the federal corrupt practices act in 1928, in connection with reporting campaign expenditures, Pickett said the charges had been laid before the department of justice, the board had replied to them and the department had taken no action.

Pickett added that the activities of the board in the 1928 presidential campaign when Alfred E. Smith was a candidate, "did not differ in any essential part from its activities in previous years, except that in its publications and through its speakers it took cognizance of an existing condition, discussing the announced and recorded opinion of one candidate for president, in regard to prohibition."

"No special funds were raised in that year," he continued. "The receipts and expenditures being less than for the year immediately preceding."

From his $40,000 Stradivarius flowed the same liquid, golden notes, with which he had cast his spell over rapt audiences in many a crowded concert house. Little clusters gathered about. DRY ADMINISTRATOR OF WASHINGTON HELD ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Four Others Indicted on Charges of Conspiracy and Bribe Taking

Seattle, Wash. —(P)—Five men, including Roy C. Lyle, prohibition administrator for Washington, Oregon and Alaska, today were under federal indictment, facing various charges of bribery and conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

Besides Lyle, those named in indictments returned yesterday include William M. Whitney, prohibition officer; Richard L. Bryant, former dry agent but now a deputy sheriff, and C. T. McKinney, former attorney.

Lyle was released on his personal recognizance in lieu of $10,000 bail. Whitney was required to furnish $5,000 bail.

Bryant posted a bond for $2,500 bail and Corwin was at liberty after claiming United States Attorney Anthony Savage had given him 48 hours to arrange his bond. McKinney was not under arrest.

Lyle, Whitney, Corwin and Bryant were charged with conspiracy to accept bribes and with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws. Lyle and Whitney expressed surprise at their indictment and said they did not know what the allegations were. Details were not made public by officials.

As an aftermath to the Republican state convention which recently endorsed modification of the prohibition laws, Whitney instituted a suit for $50,000 damages against Ralph A. Horr, chairman of this county's delegation which cast the most votes in repudiating a dry plank recommended by the convention platform committee.

LIFE'S TOO FAST, ROSENBERY SAYS

Need of Reducing Speed Is Stressed by Justice in Radio Talk

Madison —(P)—The necessity of restoring the balance of life and reducing its speed was emphasized by Marlin C. Rosenberry, chief justice of the supreme court, in a radio address here today.

Taking for his subject "The Old Home—What Are We Going to Do About It?" the chief justice traced the growth and subsequent disintegration of the home as it was known before the advent of the machine age.

"The family is no longer an organized self-sustaining unit but is more often a place in which members of the family live and from which they go out to perform their daily tasks," Judge Rosenberry said.

The younger members of the family have turned from the older members to their school teachers and foremen in stores and shops for advice, he said. The introduction of the automobile has made life more fluid and the activities of a social group are no longer bounded by the limits of the parish or township.

"There is the mistake, but well-meaning effort to carry forward the customs, habits and traditions of a former age which no longer fit the circumstances of our present day life," the speaker said.

The application of machinery has quickened the tempo of life and as a result the handicapped fall behind. Judge Rosenberry said. He said desires are often created without the means for satisfying them and that these artificial desires have created an increase in crime which have filled penal institutions with boys and girls between 17 and 23 years old.

Despite the disintegration of the home the speaker said there was little likelihood that it would disappear. He said the first step in the solution of the problem was recognition of the facts.

"We cannot carry forward successfully traditions of a former order in circumstances to which they are no longer adapted," he said. "We must build up a new set of controls, establish new life patterns and restore the balance of life and reduce its speed. The home will always be important. In any organization of society it must remain the cornerstone of the social structure."

"If we would fully recognize the facts and attempt to adjust things to present day conditions, the new home would shortly become a worthy substitute of the old home."

BUSSES FORCED TO CHANGE THEIR ROUTE

Local busses operated by the Wisconsin Michigan power Co. are operating on S. Memorial-ave instead of on S. State for a few days because the latter street has been closed for paving. It is expected the street will be open for traffic in a few days.

DRY'S "Souvenir" or "Kiss Me Again."

A few dimes and pennies jingled in the beggar's cup and the listeners straggled on.

Jacques Gordon, for nine years concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, whose cultured bow draws $1,000 in the concert hall, wheeled $5.74 from a casual street corner audience yesterday.

Does the public love music for itself? Is it the balm of ailing souls and the magnetism of a social audience that fills the music halls and saloons?

Someone wondered and the Chicago Evening Post proposed to test the question. Would Kreisler and Heifetz in beggars' garb fiddle their lives away and Paderewski under another name suffer the gibes and censure of unfriendly critics? The Post proposed to Gordon that he don the habiliments of the beggar: Ancient, rusty frock coat and frayed wig, weathered shoes and black glasses; take up his precious old Stradivarius and fiddle to the fancies of the hurrying crowd.

Music critic, reporter and photographer lurked in nearby doorways to observe the tenor of the listeners. Ma dozers idled, lured by the lilt of a Victor Herbert melody, paused in the lee of the biting lake breeze. The wind swept the tune away and the listeners moved on, three or four of them beneficently dropping coins in the melster's cup.

A music critic of another newspaper strolled down the boulevard with his wife, a noted music teacher. Gordon recognized them, swung into one of the critic's favorite tunes, "The Meditation from 'Thais'."

The critic's car caught the notes, he steeled to his wife. "Together they scraped up 15 cents for the beggar's cup, a critic's homage to a beggar's talent. Then they passed on, unknowing."

So through the hours Chicago passed in review, slowing its pace and stopping, diffidently perhaps, to hear a pauper's art. Thirty-six passers-by dropped their pittance for the fiddler in thirty minutes. And

POLICE HOLD MAN FOR INVESTIGATION

Arrest Sheboygan Man After He Is Found Carrying Loaded Revolver

William Uhrig, 23, Sheboygan, was being held by local police Tuesday morning pending an investigation into his record. Uhrig was picked up on a Dime-out about 3:30 Monday evening by Officer Carl Radtke as a suspicious character and he was held after a revolver was found in his pocket. The automatic, which he claimed he purchased in a hardware store at Sheboygan about a year ago, was loaded.

Officer Radtke was sent out to patrol the west end of town when the police received a call from the Dime-out station on N. State-st from an attendant who said he noticed a suspicious looking fellow loitering in the vicinity. Police Chief George J. Prim and District Attorney Stanley A. Stalld said Uhrig admitted he was planning to hold up the filling station.

When Uhrig was first booked at the police station he gave police the name of John Clark, Twentieth-st, Milwaukee. Later, under cross examination, he gave police his right name. Chief Prim has wired Sheboygan and Milwaukee to determine whether Uhrig has a record.

CITY PLANNERS TO CONVE IN DENVER

The 1930 convention of the National Conference of City Planning will be held at Denver, Colo., on June 23. Following the economy program relative to conventions outlined by Mayor John Goodland no one from Appleton will attend.

Is your "permanent" an economy?

Many girls find that a permanent costs more in the long run than having their hair marcelled. It should be an important saving instead. One of the big advantages of a permanent is the convenience of looking attractive under all conditions. In order to have a smart, neat wave on 5 minutes' notice you must set it yourself. Set it with Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. It's easy and you can do it daily better than anyone else who sets your hair once a week. Train your hair to such perfection that each hair is in place. Here is how:

After washing the hair (with hot water) dry the ends, leaving the top quite damp. Then apply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen liberally with the palm of your hand, or a brush. Comb it and set each wave by holding the hair in place with one finger while you shape the wave with the next finger and comb. When every wave is set, cover your hair with a square of chiffon or a close-fitting net cap.

Instead of using water on your hair, use Wave and Sheen each morning in setting the wave. Water dulls the hair. Wave and Sheen enhances the beauty. At all toilet counters adv.

DRY LEADERS DIVIDED OVER COURT RULING

Disagree on Action Needed to Make Purchaser Guilty of Violating Law

Washington —(P)—A sharp conflict of opinion among the dry leaders of the senate was produced today by the supreme court's decision declaring the purchaser of bootleg liquor ordinarily immune from prosecution.

The disagreement concerned the advisability of seeking the early enactment of legislation to make the liquor buyer punishable under the prohibition laws. Senator Sheppard of Texas, urged that such action be undertaken. Senator Jones of Washington, expressed an opposite view.

Sheppard was co-author of the eighteenth amendment. Early in the present session he introduced a bill to make the seller and purchaser of illicit liquor equally liable to punishment. Jones is the author of the famous "five and ten law" providing severe maximum penalties for violations of the dry statutes.

Meanwhile, a series of three bills, intended to improve prohibition enforcement, principally through the relief of congested federal court dockets, bore the approval of the house judiciary committee.

OFFER 3 MEASURES
One measure would authorize the summary prosecution of offenses, elsewhere defined as misdemeanors, before United States commissioners without a jury. Whatever the action of the commissioner, it must be confirmed or disapproved by a member of the federal bench.

Another would amend the United States code to define a misdemeanor as an offense calling for a maximum penalty of six months in jail, a fine of $500 or both, and a felony as an offense punished by imprisonment for not less than one year.

The third measure would amend the Jones law to define a misdemeanor under the prohibition laws as an offense committed by one who is not a habitual violator of the dry statutes and a case involving not more than one gallon of liquor.

This program was approved by the committee late yesterday after it had received a supplementary report from Chairman Vickersham of the law enforcement commission.

Wausau Company's Proposal Is Low but Balliet Gets Business

Despite the fact that the proposition of the Employers Liability Insurance Co. of London, Eng., represented locally by John M. Balliet, for furnishing compensation and public liability insurance to Outagamie-co aggregated approximately $1,200 more than the offer of the Employers Mutual Liability Co. of Wausau, Wis., the county highway commission yesterday afternoon awarded the insurance contracts to the British company.

The proposal of the English insurance company was approximately $2,540 for compensation insurance and approximately $1,000 for public liability insurance, or a total of about $3,540. The proposition presented by the Wausau Company was $2,180 for compensation insurance, and there was a further deduction of a dividend at the end of the year. Experience of the company over a number of years indicates that this dividend will be 20 per cent, making the total payment for the compensation insurance $2,540, or approximately $900 less than the figure presented by Mr. Balliet.

The compensation insurance bids were about the same, approximately $1,000, but the Wausau company pays a dividend of approximately 25 per cent, or $250, reducing the net cost to the county about $350 and making the net cost of insurance with the Wausau company about $3,300 as compared with about $4,500 with the British concern.

CANINE REFUGE IS OPENED BY FORMER RENOWNED DANCER

Waukegan, Ill. —(P)—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin today opened her animal haven, Orphans of the Storm, to the unlicensed dogs of Waukegan which are threatened with death.

Last year, by council order, 500 dogs were killed by police acting under orders to shoot every unlicensed dog they found within a one week period. A similar order has just been issued, despite the pleas of Mrs. McLaughlin that dogs are unlicensed only because their owners are too poor this year to pay for licenses.

Mrs. McLaughlin, after failing to dissuade the council, announced that any dog owner unable to buy a license might save the animal's life by placing it in her animal refuge.

Valley Scout Executive Tells How To Display Flag

As part of an extensive training program adopted by the valley council of boy scouts, members of the various troops this week are giving instructions in the proper display of the American flag, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset. Mr. Clark stated in instructions to scouts. When the flag is passing on parade or review, the spectators, if walking, should stand with their hats placed at their left shoulders until the flag has passed. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart.

When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag should be on the right and its staff should be in the front of the staff of the other flag. When a number of flags are grouped and played from staffs, the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the American flag, the national banner should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the national banner should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the American banner.

When it is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of the building, the union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless it is at half mast.

When displayed over the middle of the street, as between buildings it should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in the east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

Material for repairing Chicago and Northwestern railroad crossings between Appleton Junction and N. Meadest is expected to arrive here this week and section crews will start work at once, according to W. W. Fradenburg, local yardmaster.

FAVOR LOCAL TYPE OF BRIDGE AT DEPERE

George J. Cormier, Brown-co highway commissioner, believes that when a new bridge is built across the Fox river at DePerre it should be similar to the Memorial bridge here. Mr. Cormier said this type of bridge would be ideal. The Brown county and the state highway departments have petitions for a new bridge and the state is expected to set a date for a public hearing in the near future.

Jurisdiction over the present bridge at DePerre was taken over last week from the municipality by the state. This control is assumed under the state law permitting the state to adopt such jurisdiction when a bridge connects a state highway. Highway 41 crosses this bridge.

Several crossings are in bad shape, including N. Meadest, N. Lave and others in the Third ward, according to Mr. Fradenburg.

New planks will be laid on crossings and amiesite will be poured. Those that are subject to exceptionally hard use will be reinforced with sections of rail laid side by side.

Council Votes To Ask Removal Of Streetcar Rails

WANTS HOLES FILLED WITH RED CONCRETE

City Will Request Utility to Complete Work Before Next Winter

The Wisconsin Michigan Power company will be asked to remove all street car rails in the city during the summer of 1936, with the exception of those on Mason-st, those on S. Oneida-st between the St. Paul railroad tracks and the south end of the drawbridge, and those on the west canal bridge, it was decided at a meeting of the common council Monday evening.

On all brick and stone streets where the rails are removed the trenches are to be filled with red concrete scored to resemble brick, and on asphalt streets the damaged sections are to be repaired with asphalt. Where the rails are not removed they are to be covered with asphalt. Provision also was made that on asphalt streets where the brick surrounding the rails is higher than the surface of the street, the bricks be removed and replaced with asphalt.

As an experiment 60 feet of rail on College-ave from Drev-st west were removed last week, and the cavity filled with scored concrete the color of the brick. Feeling that the repair work presented a favorable appearance, the council decided this was the best method of repairing all brick and stone streets where rails are to be removed.

SOME RAILS TOO DEEP

Because the rails on Mason-st and those in front of the car barns on S. Oneida-st are so deeply imbedded in concrete the council felt it would be better to leave them intact and cover them with asphalt. The removal of these tracks would endanger the strength of the pavement, in addition to offering a particularly difficult piece of work. The Mason-st tracks will be left as they are and covered with asphalt from the south line of College-ave to the north line of Prospect-ave.

It was recommended that the work on asphalt streets be completed as soon as possible so the asphalt repair work can be done while the asphalt plant is in operation.

It was pointed out that the scored concrete method of repairing was better than replacement with brick as new brick placed in the trenches left by the rails would settle unevenly and create a rough street. There is small danger of shrinkage in the concrete used in the repair work, it was stated.

The proposal that the city buy the brick removed from the streets was discussed but no definite action was taken. The brick, it was shown, could be used to advantage for manholes.

All work is to be done under the supervision of the board of public works.

WILSON GETS CONTRACT

The low bid of the T. J. Wilson company, $12,416.55, for installation of the storm sewer on Franklin, Morrison, Harris, and Oneida-sts was accepted. The other bid submitted that of the Gray Robinson Construction company, was $13,142.75.

The clerk was instructed to obtain from the Wisconsin railroad commission information concerning the rates which the Fox River Bus company and the Wisconsin Michigan Power company have been permitted to run on in the city of Appleton.

The resignation of Alderman Mike Steinhauer from the price committee was accepted, and the Mayor was instructed to appoint a new member. The price committee was inaugurated by Mayor John Goodland when he took office, and Alderman Steinhauer was appointed sole member of the committee, to act with the mayor.

The street department was authorized to repair the streets where the underground conduit of the Wisconsin Telephone company is being installed, and bill the telephone company for the work.

A request from A. G. Meating for an appropriation of $300 from the city to be used in sending the high school band to Washington, D. C., with the rural graduates was referred to the finance committee, as was the request of the American Legion for an additional appropriation and the use of the 120th Field Artillery band for the Fourth of July celebration.

The request of the Elks for the transference of the band concert for the week of June 14 from Tuesday to Saturday night, in order to augment the Flag Day program planned by that organization, was referred to a committee.

The petition of the Peerless and Uneda laundries for parking privileges in front of the two laundries was turned over to the street and bridge committee. The assessments of benefits and damages for the water mains on N. Durkee-st and N. Union-st, set at the regular price, 40 cents a foot, were approved. The report of the planning commission, recommending the relocation of property in Sheriff's addition, Sixth ward, be placed in the local business district, was adopted.

The mayor reported that the county highway commission had given the city permission to acquire and sell S. River-st from S. Lawrence-st to E. John-st up to a cost of $700. The relocation of highway 10 was discussed with the county committee and the city was asked to submit proposals.

The bond of Alex Donabroski, brewmaster, was approved.

Herbert Carroll, Milwaukee, was the weekend guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fischer, W. Leland-st. He was accompanied by his Betty Anderson and Arthur Peterson.

OVERWORKED WOMEN LEAVE BURDENS OF SOCIETY FOR WEEK

Denver—(AP)—Husbands today sought the solace of their clubs, and their children the undivided attention of nursemaids, the result of a strike of nine Denver society matrons who yesterday began a week's voluntary vacation exile.

The latest development in woman's emancipation came with unexpected suddenness to the beleaguered homes. After packing bags, the nine women, who were accompanied by two unmarried friends, notified the heads of their respective establishments that they were going to the country for a week.

It was no joke. They went. They betook themselves to the country estate of Mrs. Henry Ewan at Littleton, near Denver. All callers were told they were not at home. Telephones at the Swan residence were disconnected.

It was said that a definite program for the seven days had been decided upon, but after vague rumors, no more information was forthcoming.

A spokesman hinted that rope skipping was on the morning schedule. Bridge was planned "to their hearts' content" for afternoon, and possibly into the evening.

Before the doors of the Swan home closed behind them the women expressed a determination to "get away" from it all and to obtain a rest from all routine living.

CHURCH LEADERS MEET AT Y. M. C. A.

Review Plans for Training School at Lawrence Next Fall

Church superintendents from 12 Appleton Sunday schools met at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for the leadership training school at Lawrence college this fall. The group conferred with Dr. John R. Denyes, dean of the school, who directed last year's meetings and who again will direct this fall's program.

The school will begin Oct. 6, it was announced and the executive committee of the leaders' club will name a staff and curriculum committee. The school will be open to all church school leaders in the valley and indications are all the churches which supported the work last fall will do so again this year.

Harold Eads, now superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school, was named vice president of the club and member of the executive board to succeed the former superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school. The Rev. E. F. Franz presided at last night's meeting.

After the discussion of the church school leadership course, the club members decided to meet every third Monday in each month, the first meeting to be held Sept. 15. Rev. W. W. Sloan, C. O. Davis and Harold Eads were named as a program committee to prepare for the meeting.

CREAMERY FIRM MUST PAY $725 DAMAGES

A jury in municipal court Monday afternoon awarded damages of $725 to C. A. Heckert, Appleton, from the Fairmont Creamery company of this city. The jurors deliberated about an hour and a half, returning with a verdict at 5:30. Heckert sought $925 damages from the creamery company as a result of an accident on Highway 41, north of Kaukauna, last February, when Heckert's car collided with a truck owned by the creamery company and driven by John Stroobants. Heckert claimed the truck driver was negligent and failed to keep on his own side of the road. The jury allowed Heckert $500 for damage to his car, $100 for personal injuries, and $125 for rental of another machine while his own was wrecked.

MAN PLEADS GUILTY ON CHARGE OF INCEST

William Bellin, town of Centor, pleaded guilty in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon of incest and the charge of deforcing a witness. He was arrested last week after investigation. Bellin is being held in the county jail under $5,000 bonds. He was arrested last week on complaint of District Attorney Stanley A. Staid.

RAIN, COLD HOLD UP OUTDOOR BAND CONCERT

Cold weather and rain again formed an alliance to stop the first outdoor concert by the 120th field artillery band at Pierce park this evening. The concert was cancelled Tuesday morning by Edward F. Mumm, director of the band, who said it would be played next Tuesday, June 3.

Barbers in Meeting

Eighteen members of the Appleton Barbers Union held a business meeting at Conway hotel Monday evening. A dinner preceded the meeting.

MEMORIAL GATEWAY DEDICATION IS SET FOR NEXT SATURDAY

Ceremony Will Place Entrance Among Noted College Memorials

When the Lawrence college memorial gateway, given by Col. F. J. Schneller, is dedicated Saturday it will take its place among the scores of college memorials created to commemorate the service of loyal sons. It is built over the drive connecting the new Alexander gymnasium with the Whiting athletic field. The gateway will bear bronze plaques listing the names of all Lawrence students who gave their lives in the Civil, Spanish American and World Wars. Shortly after the Lawrence Memorial Chapel was built a memorial bronze plaque bearing the names of Lawrence men who died in the service was placed in the chapel foyer. Few colleges are without their memorials to war heroes living or dead. Mount Union college at Alliance, Ohio, probably has the most memorials of any of the smaller institutions. A Roll of Honor hung at a cost of $200, a victory grove of fifty maple trees dedicated by Major General Glenn and marked by a large boulder, established at a cost of $200 and a Soldiers' Memorial hall, erected at a cost of $125,000. This building which serves as auditorium and gymnasium, was built with money raised chiefly from the college of Alliance, and from the alumni by special campaign.

An unusual memorial is to be found at Intermountain Union college, Helena, Montana. Three large boulders have been placed at the head of the capital "I" which is maintained on Mount Assencion, two miles above the college campus. Each of these boulders is dedicated to one of the Intermountain men who lost their lives in the war. Wesleyan University at Middletown, Connecticut has a chapel window in memory of the men who died in the Civil war.

A negro institution, New Orleans University, also has a Civil war Memorial. A mystery surrounds this memorial, little being known about the young man whose name is honored. The form of the main building, it bears the information that Lincoln Goodale Swearingen, born December 7, 1883, enlisted in the Union Army at Robinson, Crawford Co., Illinois, September 11, 1861; was mustered into the U. S. service as Corporal in Co. F, Fifth Illinois Cavalry, Oct. 15, 1861, and died near Vicksburg, Mississippi, December 20, 1865. The father, Hon. S. C. Swearingen, was instrumental in the erection of the main building in which the tablets is placed. But why this school, so far from the boy's home, was selected, nobody knows.

The Dickinson College memorial takes the form of a room in Old West college. Richly furnished in colonial style, it has on one wall a tablet setting forth the part Dickinson played in the World war. The remodeling of the room cost $10,000 to $12,000, the tablet itself costing some where between $2,000 and $3,000, exact figures not being available.

Union college, Barabourville, Kentucky, has a memorial gymnasium erected in 1920 and called Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial. It cost approximately $60,000 the money being raised by subscription.

East Greenwich Academy, in Rhode Island has on its front campus a cannon, the plaque of which reads as follows:

"This German field artillery piece captured by the allied army was presented to the East Greenwich Academy by the French Republic, and unveiled here July 14, 1922, in honor of Sgt. Cyril B. Mosher, a graduate of the Academy, who was killed in action in Belleau Wood, June 18, 1918. It also commemorates the noble sacrifice and devotion to our country of all students of the Academy who fought in the World war." Obtained through the efforts of Clark J. Brown.

The memorial at the University of Southern California, will probably take the form of an "Alumni Memorial Campus" through the purchase of land to accommodate new buildings, according to President R. B. von Klein-smid.

A silk banner with the Croix de Guerre was presented to the Hamilton Ambulance Unit by General Marjoullet, 28th French Division at Metz, February 25, 1915.

Henry L. Osborn wrote a book, "Hamline University in the World War," published in 1920, which sets forth the part the institution had in the struggle and honors the eight Hamlinites who lost their lives in service. Hamline also has a bronze plaque given by the class of 1915.

Baker University, in addition to a memorial tablet in the chapel, is planning the erection of a stadium with a memorial arch and front enclosure dedicated to the sixteen Baker men who were killed in service.

Alumni, students of friends have erected bronze tablets at the following institutions: Syracuse University, New York, in the various colleges; Albion College, Michigan; Morrisville College, Sioux City, Iowa; The University of Denver, Denver, Colorado; DePaul University, Greenacres, Indiana; Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa.

Cornell College, Iowa, has a service flag which is displayed upon Armistice Day.

Y MEMBERS HOSTS TO A. P. JENSEN

Pay Tribute to Retiring Physical Director at Dinner

Tribute to the work of Arthur P. Jensen, retiring physical director of the Y. M. C. A., was paid Monday evening by about 80 association members and officers at a dinner and meeting at the association building.

Adam C. Remley, chairman of the association physical education committee, was principal speaker. He recounted the latter's work during the nine and one half years connected with the physical department and of the things he had accomplished. Mr. Jensen responded with a short talk. Jensen is leaving the association June 1 to enter the insurance business.

Following Mr. Jensen's talk, Isaac Greyheart, Sioux Indian, talked to the assembly, asking better understanding of the American Indian. He recounted that the Anglo-Saxon race has reached its present heights after thousands of years of progress but that 40 years ago the Indian still was a savage in western states. He also spoke of Indian schools, telling his audience Carlisle has only eight grades and that Haskell educates the Indian in subjects taken in the average American high school. Greyheart is a graduate of Haskell. Mr. Liebrun, an eastern preparatory school and several other colleges.

In speaking of his first schooling, Greyheart recalled that he had to go to school so his family could receive certain monies from the government. The first time his father took him to school he left the boy at the school and started home. When he got there Greyheart was ready to help him unhitch the horse. The boy finally did go to school, however.

Earlier in the day Greyheart talked to about 140 school children at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium telling them about his youth. He instructed them in the Indian war hoop, sang Indian songs and chants and told how his grand father had named him and taught him. Greyheart said that grandfathers named Indian children and taught Indian boys among the Sioux.

Smoot Claims Tariff Bill Big Help To Agriculture

levies was placed at 33.22 per cent and those of the bill at 40.08 per cent an increase of 6.86 per cent.

QUOTES COMMISSION

A table prepared by the tariff commission was cited to show that 68 per cent of the total estimated increase in revenues would result from the higher rates on agricultural raw materials.

Imports of agricultural raw materials were valued at $512,450,270 in 1928, the duties amounting to $195,235,834, or 38.10 per cent. Smoot said the bill would raise the duties to $250,688,224, or 48.92 per cent, an increase over the law of 10.82 per cent.

Imports of manufactured products made from agricultural raw materials were valued at $183,062,437 in 1928, with duties of $66,176,607 or 36.15 per cent. The bill, it was estimated, would boost the revenues to $59,472,920, with an average ad valorem of 48.37, or an increase of 12.72 per cent.

The "purely protective elements" of the increases in rates on processed farm products, however, was estimated to have been raised only 3.58 per cent over the existing law and the "compensatory elements" 14.11 per cent.

The protective rates on all industrial products, irrespective of the kind of raw materials used, were estimated to have been raised from 29.42 per cent under existing law to 31.73 per cent under the bill, an increase of 2.37 per cent.

Of the 3,218 named items and basket clauses in the bill, Smoot said, "no rate changes were made in 2,170 or nearly 68 per cent." In the present law there are 2,830 items and basket paragraphs.

SUGAR SCHEDULE

Analyzing the sugar schedule, Smoot said the net result of the increases show duties amount to $181,835,588 as compared with $118,572,109 in 1928, an increase of 9.35 per cent.

The higher sugar levies are "primarily in the interest of the sugar beet growers of the middle, central and far west," Smoot asserted, adding "no one need feel concerned with respect to the increased duties on sugars."

Nearly all of the beets are grown on irrigated farms," he said. "Sugar beets are a staple crop of high value per acre, marketed close to the home, and constitute the sheet anchor of irrigated agriculture in the present development of the United States."

In the agricultural schedule alone, the increases in rates were placed at 250 and the decreases 23. The ad valorem equivalent of the increases was estimated at 34 per cent as against 19.36 per cent in the existing law, an increase of 14.14 per cent.

"All of these increases are merited in view of the competitive situation," Smoot said, "and were granted in the interest of the farmers, whose past-war prosperity has been hindered in important domestic areas by world-wide over-production and low prices for farm products."

The transfer of long staple cotton from the free to the dutiable list at 7 cents a pound was described as "vital to the domestic producers of that type of cotton and would add largely to return from farming in numerous areas of the south and southwest."

MERCURY WILL RISE WEATHERMAN SAYS

Showers and warmer is the weather forecast for Tuesday night and Wednesday, indicating that spring weather probably will return within the next few days. The rain however, will be nothing new because of the steady down-pour which started early Tuesday morning and gave indications of continuing all day.

THE TARIFF DILEMMA

The tariff bill has been patched up in such a manner as to make it possible for the president to sign it. The differences over flexible duties have been ironed out and the debenture plan has been excised. Mr. Hoover would not sign the bill with the debenture in it or with the flexible feature out of it. The senate probably will accept the conference report even though it does not like it. It has spent more than a year on this legislation and is wearying of the task.

It is expected that President Hoover will sign the tariff bill despite the fact that it can hardly be to his liking. In so doing it will appear to him that he is choosing the lesser of two evils. He can hardly afford to let congress adjourn without increasing the tariff on farm products, but a wholesale revision of rates on manufactured articles is a high price to pay for this sop to agriculture.

The dilemma in which the president finds himself is largely his own creation. Throughout the prolonged consideration of the bill he has maintained silence. He could have made known to congress that he would not approve a general revision of the tariff and could have reiterated his initial request for an increase in rates on farm products alone, together with a few commodities that seemed to need it. All pretense of following the president's recommendations having been promptly abandoned by both houses, it would have been the president's right to make his position clear. Not only has he refrained from doing this, but he has not registered any objections to even the most objectionable schedules.

The tariff bill is frankly a Grundy measure. It is the product of inordinate lobbying and log-rolling. It is a plain concession to avaricious interests and an unwarranted tax on the people for the benefit of protected industries. If the farmer derives any benefit from the agricultural schedules he will more than pay for it in higher prices for protected products he has to buy. It is foolish to contend that the prosperity of the country depends upon the enactment of this measure. Unemployment and temporary recession from the excessive prosperity of last year are not due to tariff policy. A country which can rise to the heights of production and the speculative frenzy of only a few months ago is not suffering from a lack of tariff protection. It can get back to that state again if it is desirable without any change in the tariff whatsoever. That fact is obvious.

If the president signs the bill he will place his administration decidedly on the defensive. He can give the Democrats no better issue on which to go before the country in the congressional elections next fall. President Taft in 1909 signed the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, with its iniquitous schedule K, which he himself had to condemn, and in the next congressional elections the Republicans lost the house. Is that what is about to happen now? Moreover, in signing this bill the president cannot close his eyes to the fact that more than a thousand disinterested, non-partisan economists of the United States have registered their disapproval of the measure and requested him to veto it. As a body these men are undoubtedly better qualified to pass upon such a question than the senate and the house combined, where every schedule is worked out in an atmosphere of political pressure, tribute and intrigue.

ANOTHER PROHIBITION STRAW

The Washington State Republican convention has endorsed modification of the Volstead act. It has also gone on record as opposing adherence to the world court. These are straws that would seem to indicate which way the political winds are blowing. Nevertheless, currents of air and their significance can be misleading. Washington has been one of the seats of political opposition to the world court. Party leaders out there appear to have been emboldened by the Illinois primary into an outright break with the administration. They are obviously playing the part of opportunists, willing to compromise the Republican party.

As for the declaration in favor of modifying the Volstead act, that is put forward purely as a vote-catching device. Politicians believe that this gesture will satisfy a great many wets and will not seriously alarm the dries. They know there is no prospect of modifying the Volstead act to such an extent as would materially change the status of prohibition under the constitution. They know that repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment is the only real remedy that can be applied. They have not the courage to declare for this, but the time will come when they will. The liquor question is a dangerous plaything. The politicians are feeling their way. The declaration of the Republican state convention in Washington in favor of modification of the Volstead act, while insincere in itself, is nevertheless significant in that it involves a step toward the real issue.

MENACE TO PEACE

Mussolini is on the warpath again. He has been making a series of speeches in northern Italy provocative to neighboring nations and calculated to arouse Italian people to a frenzy of jingoism. Both at Milan and Florence, where he addressed huge crowds estimated all the way from a hundred to three hundred thousand persons, his fiery phrases were frequently punctuated with cries of "Down with France!" Some of his allusions were plainly directed at the French, whom he accuses of fostering anti-fascist movements and of being wolves playing the part of lambs.

The longer Il Duce remains in power the more intemperate he seems to become. There can be no question but what he is whipping the fascist spirit into a flame of belligerency. He is plainly preparing for war. The suspected plottings of France and Jugoslavia are a perpetual nightmare to him. He feels that he is being pressed on both sides for breathing space. Italy has no colonies to absorb surplus population and economic conditions there are not likely to improve, except as they are unnaturally stimulated by excessive government expenditures from a sadly deficient treasury.

Mussolini's present shoutings about war and about the conspiracies of his neighbors are admittedly a menace to peace. Such language as he is in the habit of frequently employing cannot go on indefinitely without producing a strain that may cause trouble. Nevertheless, we do not expect to see it terminate in war. Exigencies of peace are so much greater than those of war throughout Europe today that they must prevail in any threatened conflict of the relatively near future. Moreover, powerful agencies exist for preventing war and compelling amicable settlement of differences that did not exist prior to 1914. Il Duce's wild talk is exasperating and disturbing, but it is nothing to fight over.

SAVE WILD FLOWERS

The American Automobile association has taken up the defense of native wildflowers in all parts of the country. It appeals to motorists to spare the lovely flowers growing along roadsides and in woods made accessible by automobiles.

"Unless drastic steps are taken," says the appeal, "to protect this shrubbery which adorns the hillsides and valleys, the time will come when it will be no more. The car owners, who more than anyone else have been responsible for the ruthless destruction, should make amends by joining the campaign for preservation. They have more to gain than any other group from the preservation of these heralds of the spring."

The last point is one that needs more emphasis. By despoiling the scenery each spring these motorists are gradually wiping it out so that in future springs there will be nothing lovely to see as one drives through the country.

Astronomers possess catalogues of thousands of stars with the amount of their annual proper motion, and also their direction, where these have been measured.

The grn has the head of a bison, a long narrow face, the body of a horse, an antelope's legs, an upstanding mane and a flowing tail that reaches to the ground.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police consists of about 50 officers and 500 privates. It is an armed force organized in 10 divisions under a commissioner.

SIGNOR BENITO (Woof Woof) Mussolini is setting up a loud noise about bigger and better guns. Cannons, says Il Duce, are much more beautiful than words—and so on, far into the night. Particularly are his verbal bombardments being shot toward France. The great harangue of the black shirts should be politely put to pipe down and devote his ballyhoo toward getting his own country back into shape.

Nice fellows, these Europeans—hoping that the American wheat crop fails this year, so their grain will go up in price.

Musical Notes

"Wasn't It Wonderful" from "Flying High" deserves a little pat on the back. It's another one of those slower dance numbers which seems to follow the theory that the change in feminine fashions to longer and more dignified styles has put a crimp in the hey-bey music.

It is openly acknowledged that orchestra men are taking a dislike to playing the Maine Stein Song. (Loud huzzas and bravo!)

Air mail pilots are conscientious lads. Particularly so is the one who turned his plane upside down after the motor had gone dead at an altitude of 8,000 feet, to let the mail bags fall out. Then he jumped out himself and did the umbrella act to get safely to earth.

The Line Forms on the Right

A circus fat woman has sued her husband for divorce, insisting that he worried her so by drinking, chewing tobacco (and using the kitchen sink instead of the time-honored cuspidor) that her weight dropped off from 512 to 372 pounds. Husbands in homes where the 18-day diet has been in effect will be rushing to find out the exact technique used.

Society and Such

In England, the smart thing to do is get engaged, not a lot of wedding presents, break the engagement and send the presents back. In America it's even worse, but engagements are made and broken so fast that the wise gift-givers wait until the couple is leaving the church before they head for the stores.

France (to refer back to the top of the column) seems quite unworried by Mr. Mussolini's chatter. The business of war, say the French, calls for both money and credit, and Italy hasn't either. Which means that Mr. Mussolini isn't any different than a lot of us.

Why Not a Couple of Good Books, Too?

Outagamie county motorcycle officers may soon carry first aid kits and fire extinguishers along with them. Now if they can only arrange to bring along lemonade and a few inner tubes for the benefit of the tire-troubled motorists, they'll be doing a real service.

With mixed feelings must the parents of a University of Wisconsin senior view their son. Said son was recently awarded a one hundred dollar prize for efficiency and conscientiousness. The next morning he was hailed into court with a group who had been serenading co-eds at an early hour in the morning.

Today's Anniversary

JULIA WARD HOWE'S BIRTH
On May 27, 1819, Julia Ward Howe, American author and reformer noted for her Civil War poem, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," was born in New York City.

Although the poem made her famous and won for her the honor of being the only woman elected to the American Academy of Arts and Letters, Mrs. Howe was one of the most active and versatile personalities of her day. She advocated prohibition, preached occasionally from Unitarian pulpits, was one of the organizers of the American Suffrage Association and was a zealous worker for prison reform, for world peace and other humanitarian movements.

Mrs. Howe wrote the "Battle Hymn" at the request of James Freeman Clarke, who went with her and others to visit an army post near Washington. She heard soldiers singing "John Brown's Body" as they returned from skirmish, and while the wounded were being carried to their pallets, she was inspired to write her poem.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

A WARNING AND A GENEROUS OFFER.

Today I received in the mail a study in tangerine. It comes from a "nationally recognized health authority," and the theme runs something like this:

"I earnestly warn you against contact with infectious household dust. It is a risk you cannot afford to take. . . . And the refrain has the customary happy ending, thus:

"I wish I could present one of these extraordinary household conveniences to every housewife in Sonora, Nicaragua and the province of Quebec."

So far as I know the particular gadget that inspired the great health authority's warning and generous offer is as satisfactory as any other implement of its class. That is a question for the purchaser to decide for himself. But the hygienic aspect of the matter is within my province. And I wish to reassure any of our readers who may take any distinguished colleague's warning seriously that there is practically no health risk involved in contact with such "dirt."

Of course the less dust we breathe the better, but no matter what your method of custom of housecleaning, no matter whether you are a demon housecleaner or a conventional slouch, there is going to be a certain amount of dust breathed by members of the household anyhow. I repeat, this doesn't do anybody any good, but on the other hand it rarely does any direct harm. By scientific methods we know that certain individuals suffer allergic reactions to house dust, such as asthmatic trouble, even when there is no visible dust to arouse suspicion. Then, too, it is conceivable, tho by no means proved, that microscopic wounds of the lining of the delicate air cells in the lungs by dust particles may open the way for tubercle bacilli to invade the tissues. But scientific investigations of the action of dust do not bear out the theory that it is a hazard to the housekeeper. Any disease germs which may be present in house dust have lost their virulence, their capacity to produce disease as a general rule. Drying, exposure to even diffuse daylight if not direct sunlight, and the comparatively low temperature of the air, combine to antisepticize their growth and multiplication and hence to rob them of their harmfulness to man.

So we may preserve our equanimity even in the face of the strongest health appeal the salesman can bring to bear upon us in behalf of his particular brand of household equipment, and make our choice on our own preference. It is just as sensible to think that one good make of automobile is more healthful to take the air in than another good make. Automobile salesmen do sometimes include fresh air, sunshine, blower relaxation 'n' everything among the advantages you get with a car, but they do not attempt to claim these advantages are available in only one make.

The wise housewife must be ever on guard when the "sanitary" theme is sung to her. Some of our leading merchants are phony that way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Woman May Ride.

Is there any reason why one should not ride horseback at the menstrual period? I ride an hour every second weekday and I have Ben told a woman should never ride when she is "unwell." . . . (D. M. B.)

Answer.—No normal or healthy girl should permit the fact that she is a woman to interfere with her usual activities. Invalids, however, should consult their own medical advisers about such a question. Experience of college women indicates that the woman who looks upon that function as an illness or being "unwell" or a "delicate" matter or a "weakness," and punishes herself at such time or omits her customary work, play or diversions, is more likely to suffer some damage than is the woman who considers the function physiological and incidental even if it is a "menstruation." Here the girl without special education must beware of the propaganda of interests that profit on feminine credulity and consequent trouble. Very few girls have had a fair deal in education about this, and the interests that thrive by exploiting the morbid ideas of the sex devote a large share of the profits to keeping 'em that way.

Removing Tonsils.

In removing tonsils which way would you suggest? Just what is this local anesthetic? Is it worse than having a tooth extracted? (Mrs. K.H.)

Answer.—Personally I'd prefer diathermy extirpation, which is comparatively slow, but safe and requires no anesthetic, in skilled hands. If surgical removal were necessary, I'd prefer to take a general anesthetic, such as ether, or nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and oxygen if possible. Cocaine, procaine and other local anesthetics are used; patients say the removal of tonsils under local anesthesia is no worse than having a tooth extracted under local anesthesia.

We Nuts Should Hang Together.

My age 193, male, white, occupation reading Dr. Brady, avocation preaching Dr. Brady and discovering that the world is full of old-fashioned people. Present complaint, heat, dampness and general discomfort of head from hat, especially straw Kelly. Only reason for hat, shade eyes from sun. How about discarding the Kelly for good and wearing sun glasses when necessary? (D.M.G.)

Answer.—Night, my boy, only all the o. f. people will say "Another nut." So when you can the lid kindly pretend you've never heard of me if anybody mentions anything. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

HURRAY! We're going to eat some fish," cried Clowry Tynmite. "I wish that we had caught the one we eat. Say, wouldn't we be proud?" "Oh, what's the difference?" Copy said. "We're set to eat. Let's go ahead." And so they did that very thing. My, what a hungry crowd!

The fisherman was pleased to see the Tynmites happy as could be. They'd all enjoyed the big fish meal and ate all that they could. Soon Clowry jumped up with a puff and said, "Oh, my, I've had enough. I'd like to keep on eating, through, 'cause it was mighty good."

The others also finished quick and Scouty said, "My, I feel sick. Let's get some fishing tackle and go out and try our luck." "All right," the fisherman replied. "I'll get a boat that you can ride. I'll be glad to help you all I can, 'cause you have lots of luck."

And so fishing they all went, and 'bout a half an hour was spent in pulling in some dandy fish. This pleased the bunch a lot. The Travel Man said, "They are fine and now each one pull in his line. We're going to go ashore and show the people what you got."

At shore, when their big string was raised the Tynmites were loudly praised. They all liked their acknowledgement and then went on their way. The Travel Man said, "Now we'll go to see a sight I want to show. It's bound to be the queerest thing that you have seen today."

Along the shore they walked a while and covered just about a mile. Then to a sudden stop they came. The Travel Man said, "Hail the sight you see before your eyes." 'Twas really hard to realize that what the bunch were looking at was quite a monstrous whale.

(The Tynmites ride in a queer affair in the next story.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Introducing—oh, you know him—PAUL WHITEMAN:

His middle name is Samuel. He has used it only once. On his card in the Masonic lodge.

Weights 265 pounds. His weight fluctuates so, he keeps haberdashery in different sizes.

Alternates between dieting and eating all he wants. Is especially fond of sauerkraut and pie.

Has a club—The Pleas—into which he initiates bands in towns where he plays. Calls himself Supreme Lounge.

Loves to give parties and presents. When he returned to California after a seven years' absence, he gave a luncheon to all his friends. They ranged from taxidrivers to bankers.

Once studied to be a mechanical engineer and was in the navy. Still is an expert mechanic, but the world's worst sailor. Gets sick in a rowboat.

GOOD TO HIS FOLKS
His hobbies are automobiles and shooting.

His rooms are littered with rifles and pistols. In Hollywood he sent his valet out in the morning with bottles for him to shoot at through his bedroom window.

Won't go near an airplane, has never climbed and doesn't play enough golf.

Is fond of children, his wife (Vanda Hoff, dancer), dogs and horses. Their son, Paul, Jr., aged six.

Paul, sr., was born in Denver, March 28, 1890.

His father was supervisor of music in the Denver schools. Paul gave his first $100,000 to his mother, who had given him $500 when he left home.

Is a hypochondriac and keeps a doctor within call. Especially fears pneumonia. Is unusually healthy.

His closest friends are his father and Capt. Sebastian Larso, Santa Barbara, Calif., fisherman. In New York his best pals are newspaper columnists.

S. W. Straus, the bond man, financed his first trip east to Atlantic City in 1920. Made his New York debut at the Palais Royal, where he stayed five years.

Likes to listen to opera and his band's phonograph records. Paid his musicians $314,980 in salaries last year.

VIOLA PLAYER
Knows music thoroughly. Played the viola in the San Francisco symphony orchestra. First heard jazz in Africa.

Used to send his jazz arrangements to Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia symphony, for the members to play in their spare time. Rachmaninoff once waited over in New Orleans two days to hear him conduct his band.

One of his first jobs in a jazz band was in a San Francisco dive. Has only two members of his original band with him—Ferdie Grofe, who makes all the orchestrations, and Mike Fingitore, banjoist.

In New York he divides his time between the Laphz club and his home on Riverside drive. Had some of the walls knocked out of the latter to give him more room.

The Prince of Wales has danced to his music.

Is shy and wears a nightshirt.

BARBS

Of cheering news to children is the report that tendergreen, a vegetable similar to spinach and kale, is being grown near Beville, Tex.

The person who sent President Hoover a Bible probably thought that in view of another supreme court nomination he needed to pray harder.

A dollar watch factory has been opened in Russia. It is likely the product will be advertised on the basis of the number of revolutions it can make.

Queen Mary, a news item says called on a jobless Londoner the other day. Then the Prince of Wales must be home.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—In a quiet corner of a Washington club the other evening, during a reception and dance in his honor, "the greatest leatherneck of them all," told me of the battle he is fighting with a lead pencil and copy paper.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune—"Gabe" to his intimate friends, "The Old Indian" to the thousands of devil dogs who have fought under him, and "the greatest leatherneck of them all" to the world in general—is writing a book.

"Reminiscences of A Marine" is the title. It will make its appearance in September—if, as the general says, the supply of lead pencils is not exhausted—and will be a record of the life of this great soldier from the time he came up from the bayou country of Louisiana to Annapolis until his retirement a few months ago as commandant of the marine corps.

NO GHOST
"Reminiscences of A Marine" is being written in the little town of Lexington, on the campus of Virginia Military Institute, where General Lejeune is commandant of cadets.

And the old warrior is having quite a time of it.

"It's my maiden and only effort along literary lines," he said. "Literary, did I say? That's wrong. My book hardly comes in that class."

"But I'm writing every single word of it. No one 'ghosting' for me. I've even got to edit the thing alone."

His description of his method of writing was amusing.

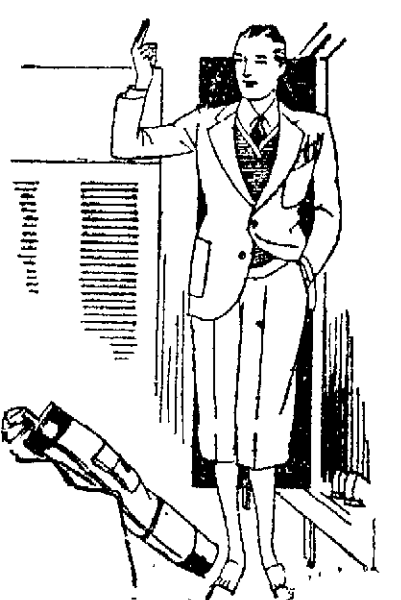

"I use lead pencils and ordinary paper. I was fortunate enough to get hold of a typist who can read my writing. When I finish an episode, or so, I turn the penciled sheets over to her. She does the rest."

For material the general relies for the greater part on his memory. But while he was in France during the world war, in command of the Second Division, he wrote Mrs. Lejeune every day. These letters were preserved, and have been invaluable to him. Then too, he has access to official data on the files of the war and navy departments.

HARD JOB
When I talked to him he was on the last chapter. In that chapter was to be told his reminiscences of duty here in Washington as commandant of the marine corps up until his retirement to accept the post at V. M. I.

"It's a hard job, too," he said. "I've got to crowd a whole lot in that last chapter. And since the whole book is limited to a certain number of words, if I put in too much in that last chapter, I've got to lop off a chunk of what I've already written."

"And you know how that hurts a man."

TWO MORE CASES ON RADIO LAW COMING TO SUPREME COURT

One Involves Property Rights, the Other Violation of Copyright Laws

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—New by-laws of constitutional law, opened with the advent of radio, are leading directly to the supreme court for final determination. Only last week this court decided the first case involving broadcasting ever to come before it, and now two more controversies, both raising novel issues and involving the very fundamentals of the constitution are thrust squarely before the nation's highest tribunal.

Chicago's most important radio battle—between stations WLS, operated by the Prairie Farmer, farm publication, and WENR, owned by the Insull utilities—has been carried to the supreme court on the issue of property rights by the former station. Gene Buck, the Will Mays of the songwriters of tin pan alley, is the central figure in the second case, involving the right of hotels to pick up radio programs broadcast in violation of the copyright laws and "rebroadcast" them for their guests without paying copyright fees.

The WGY case, decided by the supreme court last week after nearly a year of deliberation, did not raise either of these issues.

DECISION INTERPRETS LAW
It merely interpreted the existing radio law as it relates to the administrative powers of the radio commission, and the court of appeals of the district of Columbia, which it established definitely as a "super" radio commission.

Chicago's case represents a contest between stations which rank among the foremost in the country. WLS is asking the supreme court to review the decision of the court of appeals here on the ground that the lower court's decision destroyed a definite property right it had in violation of the constitution. WLS, in this decision was forced to relinquish to WENR a portion of its time on the air. The farm station had operated five-sevenths of the time on the 570 kilocycle channel, and the Insull station two-sevenths. The court last winter ordered the stations to share time equally.

WLS claims that as a result of the action it has lost heavily in advertising contracts. Moreover, it contends that court did not hold its program was "inferior" to those of WENR but they were "equal." Consequently it argues, through Harry L. Kelly, its attorney, that the lower court took a portion of its property without due process of law.

The right of WLS to appeal from the appeals court's decision actually expired a month ago. But special dispensation was obtained from Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes by virtue of the fact that the WGY case was pending, and that the station did not know just what courts to pursue until the decision in the case was rendered.

HERE'S NEW QUESTION
A new phase of the conflict between song writers and broadcasters involving musical copyrights on songs played over the air is brought to the court for judgment. In the Buck case specific questions which the circuit court of appeals at Kansas City was unable to decide as related to the court. They grow out of the copyright violation cases which involving station KWKC, at Kansas City, Mo., and the Jewell La Salle Hotel there, for injunction and damages for infringement of copyright.

Buck, as president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers representing about 700 songwriters, who organized to protect the performing rights of their musical works against infringement, won in the lower court from

DANCING AND JAZZ MUSIC LEAD RABBI TO RESIGN OFFICE

Hammond, Ind.—(AP)—Rabbi Louis Krupp of the wealthy, Weth-El temple has resigned, because, his wife explained, he found "dancing and jazz music are inappropriate when religious services are conducted."

The difficulty arose after the younger set of the congregation decided to stage the "Beth-El Scandals," an amateur production, May 29.

"The congregation is too worldly," Mrs. Krupp said and announced the rabbi's decision was irrevocable. Referring to the "Beth-El Scandals," she said "My husband did not find it conducive to spirituality. Imagine trying to pray while people are singing jazz tunes and dancing."

The hotels however, won in the lower court, and Buck appealed to the circuit court, which in turn, now asks the supreme court to establish whether the hotel itself is liable under the copyright laws. Specifically, the question is whether the act of reproducing the copyrighted music from the station actually constitutes a "performance" of the composition within the meaning of the copyright laws.

the broadcasting station. He contended the station had broadcast, without the consent of the copyright owners, the song "Just Imagine" in 1928, and that the hotel had reproduced it through a master recording set and distributed it throughout the hotel.

WOMEN INDIGNANT WHEN COURT CLERK CALLS FOR "KISS"

Evansville, Ind.—(AP)—Ivan Rubin, clerk of the police court, looked over the assembly in court inquiringly yesterday and then said in a loud voice: "Kiss!"

The people in the courtroom looked up inquiringly.

"Kiss?" inquired the clerk then louder: "Kiss! Kiss!"

A woman spectator turned to her companion and said: "Flesh!" And her companion replied: "The very idea!"

"Kiss!" called the clerk.

A man pushed forward. He said he was W. W. Kiss. He admitted he parked on the wrong side of the street, and he paid a fine.

The woman spectator sighed in relief and the machinery of the law ground on.

UTILITIES TO PUSH IMPROVED SERVICE

Only Unsound Political Legislation Will Stop Program, Is Claim

Superior—(AP)—Only restrictive and economically unsound political legislation will prevent the public utility industry from carrying out a program of improved service and low rates, G. W. Van Derzee, Milwaukee, retiring president of the Wisconsin Utilities Association, said here last night.

Van Derzee was one of a number of public utility representatives who spoke at an "improvement of officers conference" of the organization.

"The public record of industry," Mr. Van Derzee said, "shows that rates for service have been progressively lowered to the public and that service is generally good. It has been conclusively proved to the legislature that rates for private companies are lower than rates of municipally owned systems."

President Van Derzee stated that the property investment of electric gas and transportation companies in Wisconsin is approximately $300,000,000. Wages paid to regular employees and construction workmen will exceed $30,000,000 this year. He said the companies would spend $40,000,000 before the end of 1930 in extending and improving their service facilities.

H. R. Broker, Racine, in reviewing the accomplishments of the gas section, stated that gas companies serve 325,000 customers in the state and that they produced 14,751,000,000 cubic feet of gas last year, a quantity sufficient to supply the average household with gas for 400,000 years.

George Ruffel, Green Bay, chairman of the transport section, reported that 3,100 cars and buses carried 260,000 passengers last year. Wisconsin companies have 1300 trolley cars and 450 busses in service.

D. G. Evans, La Crosse, chairman of the electric section said that the privately owned electric companies serve 231,000 customers. Farm customers number more than 5,000 to each.

Officers installed were M. H. Frank, Madison, president, succeeded ing G. W. Van Derzee, Milwaukee; A. J. Gooden, Green Bay, president, E. Wall House, Milwaukee; E. J. Steiner, Milwaukee, chairman of the transport section and P. G. Walter, Madison, vice chairman of the section.

The Story of Sue by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"O H, I'm so sorry!" Sue was contrite at once as the crumpled newspaper hit Judge Thornton who had entered unnoticed. "I was throwing away some disagreeable news."

Her astonished glance noticed that he carried a copy of the same edition, open to Barbara's wide-eyed, trusting, demure face.

"She is the kind of a girl whom a man is proud to have his son marry," the judge expounded to Miss Parsons. "A born lady, every inch of her!"

All of the sarcastic, caustic remarks that the sullen tongue had casually cast off came back to Sue; the petty meanness that got by because it was clothed in smiles and dimples and pretense of innocence.

Judge Thornton stopped, then, to retrieve Sue's paper, and place it in the wastepaper basket. It opened as he touched it and he saw the face of the same girl, oddly grotesque now, where the paper had crushed liner into her profile. He looked at Sue wonderingly for a second and then cleared his throat.

And Jack walked in while he was doing it.

"What made you destroy Barbara's picture?" the older man asked in an even voice, clothed in the same quiet dignity with which he faced a Judge and jury.

"She had reason enough to," Jack answered for her. "Did you see that barbed wire thrust about husbands and stenographers? Sue and I ate together yesterday and Barbara knew it, so she thought she would get even. Of course she didn't mean to be mean about it. Barbara just did it for fun. I called her and she's crushed to think that maybe her actions are being misunderstood and she cried and all that sort of bunk. I told her I knew it was all right with you, Sue, but I'd ask you to call and let her explain. You will, won't you?"

He looked so exactly like a small boy who has promised the ice cream wagon that his mother will buy if the vendor will wait a minute, and then comes running into the house, half afraid that she won't, that Sue felt sorry for him, even while she reflected that it was always a woman's undoing when a man could enlist her pity.

"Sue couldn't know it was in fun," the younger attorney turned to his father again. "I'd have punched a man's nose who did the same thing to me. Only of course this is different."

This is different! Or rather the girl in the case was different! That was the way of love the wide world over. Sue's thoughts that couldn't be heard talked to themselves. Love made a shining curtain, gossamer thin but magic dipped, that hid all blemishes. Love erected pedestals and put the loved one above the world. And when she came down, and the thrill of the moon-misted skirt dragged in the dust... Love was glamor, star-shine and violet scent and the high tide of warm green winds in spring and cool blue stars in autumn... and Jack had found it and not known that an actress played a part for him. He didn't understand that love was being lovely in the morning when your head ached and you had to keep going; when a dream was broken.

en and you hadn't time to pick up the pieces. He thought that Barbara had all the charm of history's sirens and none of their vices. Men always did.

She reached for the telephone, but her hand was cold and her face was hot. "I'll tell her I understand," she said steadily but she did not look at him.

Judge Thornton stopped her. "It isn't necessary, Sue. It was a poor joke. Let Barbara do the calling, Jack."

NEXT: Sue calls Barbara.

It has DULLNESS woven in
It is more SHEER
It will WEAR much longer

We are showing Phoenix dulSheer for the first time.

AND we DO say it's . . most unusual

"Crepe" gets its dull effect from peculiarly twisted silk—and this same ingenuity gives dulSheer a fabric-like appearance. Highlights disappear—the stocking seems molded to the leg. The grain or mesh is invisible. This makes the stocking look more sheer. And the same twist that does all these wanted things, adds strength to the silk—makes the hose wear longer. And, of course, nobody objects to that. Pulls or roughening are practically done away with. No wonder we say Phoenix dulSheer is a most unusual stocking.

DRAMA LOVERS ARE WELL PLEASED WITH SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Life's Like That" Is Written, Staged and Directed by Teacher

"Life's like that. It's like a rose full blown in youth, but the petals must fall." Thus did Mary Crothers, former sweetheart of Stephen Worthington, sum up the philosophy of life and love in the senior class play of Appleton high school, "Life's Like That," written, staged, and directed by Miss Ruth McKennan, dramatic coach at the high school, Monday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Appleton drama lovers experienced a new thrill when they witnessed the staging of a play by its author, a local woman.

The author seems to have caught the spirit of youth and embodied it in every line and every action of her youthful characters. The more mature roles emphasizing it by contrast. Clever lines marked this play as unusual, and a new plot neatly worked out held the interest of the audience until the closing curtain. The humor was fresh and spontaneous and the characters charming.

NO DETAIL LACKING
The attention to detail in working out the plot and in building up each character was remarkable. The stage business showed careful planning and in every case the stage picture was well-balanced and pleasing to the eye. This was especially true in the yacht race scene when nearly all of the characters appeared on the set at the same time, but the picture was so carefully worked out that there was no impression of an overcrowded stage or one-sidedness. Miss McKennan handled this difficult scene in a commendable manner, the lines and actions of the people on stage imparting to the audience in a vivid and realistic manner the action off stage, that is, the yacht race and the airplane accident. Too often in such a situation the audience is left on the outside, but the author has overcome this difficulty by capturing and holding the interest until the end.

The characters were admirably cast, all of the roles being taken with ease. Jean Shannon, as Cynthia Winsborough, daughter of an ambitious mother, was the typical sophisticated modern, and Cecile Bick as the mother, played the part with dignity and poise. Russell Wichmann, who took the part of Stephen Worthington, Cynthia's fiancé, remained in character throughout the play, giving a sympathetic portrayal of middle-aged string to hang on to lost youth. The part of Mary Crothers, his former sweetheart, was well taken by Betty Meyer.

Loyal Fraser, as Jack Harford, the "man of mystery," gave a clever portrayal of arrogant, confident youth, and Ted, played by David Triton, immediately won the hearts of the audience. Janette Hughes, as the spoiled daughter of the house, and Roberta Burns, her schoolmate, kept up the humorous thread in the play. The parts of Bob and Dick, the "boy friends," were cleverly taken by Robert Mortimer and Arthur Roemer, and Monica Cooney, in the role of Beth Newells, the secretary, was charming. Lawrence Oosterhouse, as the old family servant, showed just the proper amount of deference and presumption.

Vets To Reenact Battle As Part Of Reunion Gathering

Milwaukee (AP)—An advance over 33 kilometers of hotly contested French battle ground at the cost of 14,000 men killed, wounded and missing in action will be relived in reminiscences when members of the Thirty-Second Division Veterans association meet in reunion here Sept. 14 to 16.

Plans for the reunion are being made by a guard of Milwaukee veterans, Col. Phil Westphal announced today. The reunion will be the first since 1921. Most of the Thirty-second men reside in Wisconsin and Michigan, the two states whose national guards were merged at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas, in 1918, to form the famous Red Arrow fighting unit.

Special memorial services will be conducted for Major General William G. Bohn, who commanded the division from Texas to Germany, and to the men who fell in battle, and those who have died since the war. The story of the Thirty-second's advance against the enemy reads almost like fiction. In the charge, 2,153 prisoners were captured in the first assault near Chateau Thierry, the troops underwent their first baptism of fire. They won from the French the sobriquet of "Les Terribles" when they drove back the Prussian guard on that occasion.

Members of the division were under fire for six months, with only 10 days in rest areas, fighting on the Aisne-Marne front and in the battles of Aisne-Marne, Oise-Aisne and Meuse-Argonne. They repulsed every enemy counter attack without loss of ground. Twice in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the division fought in rain and mud to penetrate the concrete dugout defenses of the High Command and declared impregnable.

The Thirty-second was the only American unit the General Mangin's famous Tenth French army in the Oise-Aisne offensive and was the first American contingent to set foot on German soil.

Brigadier General George F. O'Connell, Madison, is president of the association. Col. LeRoy Pearson, Lansing, Mich., is treasurer and Lieut. Col. Byron Beveridge, Madison, corresponding secretary.

BIGGERS AGAIN NAMED "LAWRENTIAN" EDITOR
Hayward Biggers, Elgin, Illinois, will head the staff of the Lawrentian, Lawrence college semi-weekly newspaper, for another year, the board of control announced. Other members of the editorial staff are Robert Beggs, Pensacola, Fla., news editor, and Howard Klatt, Milwaukee, assistant editor, the post being held during the last year by Alvin Lane, Fond du Lac, who is graduating.

George Beckley, Appleton, was the choice of the board for the position of business manager of the publication. This position was formerly held by John Newbern, Burlington. The new staff assumes immediate charge and will produce the commencement issue to be released commencement day, June 9.

CONSTRUCTION ON MARKED INCREASE OUT IN SUBURBS

Trend from Urban Sections Is Unmistakable, Says Census Chief

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington (AP)—Construction, especially in the lines of building of homes is showing a marked increase in the suburban districts as compared with city blocks. This is indicated plainly in the figures so far available from the bureau of census.

These figures present a rather difficult problem for analysis because of the fact that in many instances the suburbs lie within the city limits of the incorporated town. However, Dr. Leon Truesdell, chief of the population census, declares the trend to the suburbs is unmistakable. He is unable to say whether this is a result of a movement from the more congested city districts or whether it represents new population.

Many of the census enumerators maintain there is no distinct movement away from the city proper. They base this on the increased number of large apartment houses being built throughout the urban districts and the increased number of people who live in this type of dwelling.

They admit, however, that more people now want to own their own homes, and it is this class which is built up the suburban districts. Construction in the suburban districts is largely confined to single family dwellings, but in the older suburbs, surrounding the larger cities, apartment houses have already begun to make their appearance and are greeted with utmost facility.

PEOPLE SEEK OUTDOORS
Eousing authorities believe that no small part of this trend is due to the growing desire of the American family to enjoy outdoor amusement. Where once a family was content to picnic in a city park, to day a large number is likely to take a trip of 75 to 200 miles, with the picnic merely an incidental. Municipal golf links have proved totally inadequate for the growing army of golfers. The same applies to public tennis courts, public swimming beaches and other forms of outdoor amusement. People are now seeking these diversions in the suburbs.

Retail trade has followed the flag. In many suburban districts adjoining large cities, the big department store merchants have established branches or warehouses and loading stations by means of which deliveries are made in the suburbs as promptly as in city streets. This has involved a tremendous increase in wire communications since no small part of the business of the parent stores is transacted by telephone with these branch stores and warehouses.

The trend is shown by piecing in city figures in a number of cities. For example, Cleveland showed a gain of 12.6 per cent in the present census as compared with 1920 but some of the suburbs showed an increase of as high as 235 per cent. In the same way, the cities grouped around San Francisco showed a large proportion of increase than the parent city of San Francisco.

NEURITIS PAINS WERE RELIEVED BY NEW KONJOLA

"General Health Improved — Small Daughter, too, Greatly Benefited" Says Racine Lady

MRS. B. H. NISHEN
"I was bothered with neuritis for years and my general health was not what it should have been," said Mrs. B. H. Nishen, 1938 State street, Racine. I became so anemic that I wished to wear warm clothing even in summer. The neuritis pains and my general lack of energy made it difficult to get my work done about the house.

"Realizing that Konjola was a blend of herbal juices I thought it might help my condition. I feel better in every way and for the past few months have been able to do more work than in several years. I do not chafe as easily as I formerly did. I gave this medicine to my little daughter who was a weakened state after an attack of measles. She also suffered with catarrh. Konjola quickly restored her health and energy and with her system in so much better condition her catarrh was greatly relieved. Personally I am going to continue with Konjola until I am in perfect health and I shall always keep this medicine in my home."

Konjola is a medicine that, when given a fair trial of from six to eight bottles, easily and harmoniously eliminates the common ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

NEW TARIFF BILL DANGEROUS, SAYS MATCH TRUST HEAD

Ivar Kreuger Gives First Newspaper Interview—
Discusses Barriers

Editorial Note: Ivar Kreuger, founder of the International Match Trust and directing genius of a score of other industries, has given his first newspaper interview to Edwin C. Hill, special staff writer of the Post-Crescent discussing world economic affairs. Mr. Kreuger expresses the belief that the new tariff bill is full of danger to American prosperity.

BY EDWIN C. HILL
Special Dispatch to Post-Crescent
New York (CPA)—Ivar Kreuger, president of the gigantic Swedish holding company of Kreuger & Toll, and founder and directing genius of the International Match trust and 225 subsidiary corporations, including a chain of banks solidly established in the financial centers of Europe, vast forests, innumerable pulp and saw mills, iron mines, factories, steamships, railroads, office buildings and apartment houses—the head in short, of perhaps the most powerful and stable interlocking trust in the world—gave his first newspaper interview Monday.

From the lofty eminence of his mastery of a tremendous and thoroughly international business, he spoke as one who surveys this troubled world from a mountain top, with vision unobstructed and undisturbed by national, racial or political prejudices.

He spoke as a friend of the United States—where his interests are numerous and swiftly expanding—but he spoke at the same time as a friend of Europe. He offered concise opinions of courses and policies which would in his measured estimation, make for the good of all the world and consequently, as the world is now welded together by its swift communications and inescapable mutualities, for the good of all its fair dealing and industrious parts.

OPPOSES HIGHER TARIFF
If there was any single theme threading through the interview it was his earnest conviction that the time has passed, by a decade, at least, when any trading nation can largely and permanently prosper by raising up artificial barriers to trade any more than general individual business can prosper through unnecessary, wasteful and good will destroying competition.

His opinions, frankly and freely offered, were extraordinarily arresting because Mr. Kreuger knows this country as well as he knows his own Sweden or as well as he knows the group of needy European countries to whom he has loaned more than $350,000,000 in the last few years. They were intensely interesting because this young man of 49 came here at 20 with less than $100 in his pocket to work as a real estate agent in Chicago.

Next he was a lineman on the Illinois Central, then as a bridge builder in Mexico then as an engineer helping to construct in this city the Flatiron building, Macy's and the Plaza and St. Regis hotels, and then as the builder of the stadium which John D. Archbold gave to Syracuse university.

He thinks that the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill is a very dangerous and indefensible piece of business legislation—dangerous to American properly because dead certain to reduce materially American exports to European countries—indeed, to plain economic principles. Mr. Kreuger was an outspoken as any man with no ax to grind is apt to be.

"Mind you," he said, "the proposed tariff act would have comparatively little direct effect on my companies. I can therefore speak dispassionately as I see the problem. What do we find if we raise our eyes from the ground to dispute and look about the open horizon? We find that country after country, anticipating the passage of the new American tariff law, has already raised its customs walls. Reprisals are not merely to be expected. They have already begun. Your closest neighbor, Canada, and one of your best customers, was one of the first to strike back.

HARD TO STOP
"Once begun, this attitude on the part of foreign countries will be difficult to stop, if not impossible. Tariff walls after tariff wall will be raised high against your exports. The first to feel the pinch will be motor cars and films, two of your exportations that have been very widespread and profitable. Subsequently other exports will be repulsed by unscalable barriers raised by alarmed European nations acting on the defensive.

"I think the United States is right in her attitude about the war debts. They are honest debts and should be paid."

He is tall—well over six feet—and still slim in his straightness of figure. His complexion is pale, almost colorless. His eyes are black, or nearly so, and with a very penetrating gaze.

Perhaps the most amusing of Mr. Kreuger's characteristics is that he is—head of the world's greatest match trust—owner of countless millions or billions of matches—never carries one. He doesn't carry a patent lighter. He doesn't carry any kind of a fire-maker. It is a habit. He incessantly borrows a match or a light from whomever he may be with as he smokes his cigarettes.

He is incredibly modest and shy of publicity, so much so that he will not travel on a steamship line which puts his name on its passenger list. He is a live wire but he loves comfort and maintains apartments, always ready for him, in New York, Paris and Berlin and a triplex apartment in Stockholm. He speaks five languages, in all five of which he is a fluent talker when he wants to be. Nevertheless he has a world-wide reputation as a silent man. He said to this writer:

"Whatever success I have had may be attributable to three things: One is silence, the second is more silence, and the third is still more silence."

Illness Keeps King George From Attending Third Court

necessitated an operation for the removal of infected material. He showed improvement and in February had recovered sufficiently to be taken to the seaside for recuperation and rest. It is only in recent months, however, that he has been carrying on a full schedule of his normal activities.

Apart from the courts it was stated that the king is following his normal routine. This morning he received Sir William Bontyne, who relinquished his appointment as chief of the Scottish command. Last Sunday, however, contrary to usual custom, the king was not present at the morning service in the palace chapel.

The rheumatism from which he is suffering is attributed to the recent damp weather. It was hoped he would be able to keep his engagements later in the week. These include reception of delegates to the congress of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire at Buckingham palace Friday and the concert of the New York Philharmonic orchestra at Albert hall Sunday.

Tonight's court will be held by Queen Mary, assisted by the Prince of Wales. It was understood that the same procedure will be followed as at the court's last year when the king was still suffering from the effects of his long illness. Her majesty will be escorted to the ball room by the Prince of Wales, who will walk from the royal apartments to the ball room and conduct her to the throne.

8 AMERICANS INCLUDED
Six hundred debutantes and matrons have been commanded to appear at Buckingham palace this evening for presentation to Britain's royal figures. There will be eight American women among the presentees.

Most of the debutantes and their mothers and escorts will leave their homes about 5:30 p. m. to take their place with their cars in the mail in front of the palace before the royal guard signals that the procession before the queen is to start. The

Cards Began Climb When Frisch Went To Second

BY JOHN R. FOSTER

Copyright 1936

NEW YORK—First place in the National league was as crowded last week as a chorus girl's flat. Today both Brooklyn and St. Louis were claiming the premises and it was only a week ago that the Giants were dispossessed.

There will be a battle royal this week, when the Giants and the Dodgers collide in what should be one of the liveliest series of the season.

Some of the fans are wondering what brought the Cardinals up from the second division in such short order. The principal factor in the Cards' improvement was the change that placed Frankie Frisch back at second.

From the time that Frisch resumed his grand and lofty tumbling at second base, the Cards began to ascend in spirits and percentage. By the skill of their batters and some very good fielding, combined with the efforts of their pitchers, they attained a position in the race not assigned to them by the prophets who fore gathered prior to the season's opening.

Spark Adams has played quite well at third, but the great demon, who has been named by Gelbert, who became another man at short-stop when Frisch went back to second. He has played short in a manner that he bears out fully what Frisch once said of him. This was—"He will one day be the best shortstop in the National league."

LOUISVILLE KERNS WORRY ABOUT LEAD

Serious Slump Has Columbus Senators Trailing by Two Games

Chicago—(AP)—Manager Al Rothorn of the Louisville Colonels, today was hunting around for something to stop what rapidly is becoming a serious slump.

The Colonels were still leading the American association, but by a margin of only two games over Columbus, which was tied with Toledo and Indianapolis all within halting distance of the top. Louisville yesterday dropped its third straight contest and its fourth in five starts, bowing to Sarge George Connally and the Toledo Mud Hens, 4 to 2.

Columbus did its part in moving closer to the Louisville club by taking the first game of the series from Indianapolis 7 to 5, Indianapolis out-hit the Senators, 15 to 11.

Slim Harris of St. Paul, and Charley Robertson of Milwaukee, engaged in a brilliant pitching battle, with the Brewers finally gaining a 2 to 1 decision. Oscar Roettger's triple drove in Anderson with the Saints' only run in the first, but the Brewers tied up in the second. Young tripled in the eighth and Gerber's wild throw to the plate permitted him to score the winning run. Each hurler yielded six hits.

Kansas City out-hit Minneapolis, 11 safeties to 9, but was beaten, 6 to 5, for the third time in four starts by the Millers.

SENATORS SMASH HOME RUNS AND BEAT YANKS, 10-7

Lefty Grove Chalks Up Sixth Straight Win by Downning Boston

BY HERBERT W. BARKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON—The Washington Senators proceeded blithely on their victorious way in the American league much as the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins, "dark horses" both, are doing in the National.

Picked in advance predictions to finish no higher than seventh, the Senators, under great leadership by Walter Johnson, were leading the pack by four full games today.

Yesterday they scored their sixth successive victory and their fifteenth in 19 games, beating the New York Yankees, 10 to 7. Stealing a lead from the Yanks' own book, the Senators won on home runs.

Joe Judge and Goose Goslin hit successive home runs in the fourth and repeated the feat in the fifth, thus accounting for six runs. The second blast from the Washington batsman was the high spot of a seven-run rally that swept Vernon Gomez off the mound and won the ball game.

Cleveland bounced back into third place with a double victory over the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 3 and 5 to 2. Wes Ferrell outpitched Red Faber by a wide margin in the opener, and Clint Brown had an edge on Cecil Caraway in the nightcap.

Lefty Grove chalked up his sixth win without a defeat as the Athletics beat Boston 8 to 5.

The Detroit Tigers made good use of eight hits to beat St. Louis, 7 to 3, and moved into sixth place.

In the National league, Brooklyn gave the New York Giants, their fifth straight defeat, 7 to 0, as Dazzy Vance turned in his best effort of the year. Vance gave the Giants only two hits, one a scratch, and permitted only two men to get as far as second base.

The Cardinals turned back Pittsburgh, 10-4, for their eighth straight win and their seventeenth in 18 games.

Despite Hack Wilson's thirteenth homer of the year with one on, Cincinnati beat the Cubs, 6 to 2. Jackie May gave the Cubs only six hits.

Showing of Squad Is Great Improvement Over Last Meeting

Showing much improved play, Appleton Y. M. C. A. older boy tennis lost all its singles matches and one doubles match to Oshkosh high school team, Saturday. Several weeks ago the Appleton squad invaded Oshkosh and never won a set.

The feature of singles play was the match between Ed Anger of Oshkosh and Norman Clapp of Appleton. The first match went 9-7 for Anger but the second almost set a record by going 23-21 before Clapp won. Anger then won the third set 7-5.

Shannon and Powers won the doubles match from Tom Anger and Pfaffenroth, after losing the first set. The scores were 2-6, 7-5 and 7-5. The other Appleton doubles team of Dear and Schroeder was defeated 6-3 and 6-3 by Meier and Pipkorn of Oshkosh.

KAY IVERSON QUILTS AS MARQUETTE COACH

Milwaukee—(AP)—Kay Iverson, hockey coach at Marquette university for the past four years, yesterday handed in his resignation, for "business reasons" to be effective at the close of the school year. Iverson said, however, he might consider several offers he had from midwestern schools offering him work in a similar capacity.

Coming to Marquette from the University of Wisconsin, Iverson produced three teams in his last years that had records of 34 victories and but seven defeats. His team last year took an eastern tour on which it defeated Army and Harvard, losing only to Yale.

Pocan Winner Of First Game For Racine "Belles"

Kimberly—Clarence or nick named "Chief" Pocan by the Racine fans came through in his first appearance on the mound for the Belles, who now are leading the State league, by taking a ten inning game from the heavy hitting Kenosha squad Sunday, 2 to 1.

Pocan's curves and his fast ball held the Kenosha team to four hits, and for seven innings without a score.

Base ball fans around the valley will miss the former Kimberly pitcher greatly as he has pitched some of the best baseball in this vicinity. He has pitched both for Kaukauna and for Appleton. It was while pitching for Appleton he threw his arm out.

Those were the days when he could hang up around seventeen strikeouts in one game.

A few years ago Pocan performed in three of the most important southern leagues, namely the Tri State league, Southwestern league, and the Mississippi Valley league. In the latter league he was successful at hitting home runs collecting 27 for the season. "Poke" may still have been going big in that league had he not had trouble with his knee, which has been operated on successfully.

Although the fans hate to see Pocan leave the Fox river valley league they will long remember him for the great baseball he pitched last season especially when he was setting his record of 53 scoreless innings.

Art Wildenberg, Little Chute pitcher, was in great form allowing only five hits and fanning eight men. Keiths and Menasha pitcher gave seven hits but saw them bunched for runs in the initial innings.

NEW LIGHT SYSTEM IS INSTALLED IN CITY OF KAUKAUNA

Approximately 170 Incandescent Lights Now Burning There

Kaukauna—Installation of the incandescent system of street lighting which the city has been completed, according to Herbert Weckworth, superintendent of the city electric and water departments. About 170 incandescent lights now burn each night in place of the old arc lights.

Work on the installation of the new system was begun about two months ago after the council favored the change to the utility commission. The new lights were installed in four circuits. They give a brighter light than the old arc lights and the maintenance is cheaper.

The saving on the new system in four years is expected to amount to the cost of the installation. With the new lights it is possible to give brighter illumination in the business district of the city and to use lights with less candle power in the residential districts.

New lights can now be erected at a cost much less than the erection of the old arc lights. The new system probably was the best to be used by any city in the state.

Among the well known speakers scheduled for the day are such men as Robert Jackson, who as head buyer for one of the larger packing companies has bought as many as 30,000 calves a day; F. G. HERE AND THERE WITH FARMERS

BY W. F. WINSEY

Dale—Although the recent frost set the damaged crops back several weeks in this vicinity, the recent rains have already made a great improvement in all the fields. The crops most seriously injured are alfalfa, sweet clover, red clover, alsike clover, and the pastures. Canning peas and cabbage beds escaped more generally than in other parts of Outagamie county. Even the injured fields are improving and showing the beneficial effects of the rain.

Corn is nearly all planted and many fields are up and show excellent stands. Early potatoes are up and most of the late potatoes have been planted. Farmers who have finished planting are building fences and making repairs on buildings and about the farms.

William Runge and Albert Kaufman are putting up long stretches of steel fences along the highways in front of their farms. Mr. Runge says he likes a good fence on a permanence.

Greenville—Accepting the lesser done to their canning pea fields, the frost as complete, some of the farmers of the town of Greenville have either plowed the field and reseeded them, or have moved the frozen plants to expose the natural repair methods of sun and rain. Because they used the peas as a nurse crop for alfalfa, some farmers, wishing to save their alfalfa, have not disturbed the destroyed nurse crop. The losses in most of the pea fields are very heavy.

George Schaffer plowed an eight acre field of peas and reseeded it. He was very fortunate in so doing as the rain is helping the fresh seed to get a strong start.

Harvey Cullerton mowed a five acre field of peas to help the peas to get a new start without being in the unnumbered with the frost-killed tops.

William Wisner, plowed and reseeded a six acre field of peas. Nussbaum Brothers plowed and reseeded an eight acre field. William Menning who has 15 acres of late and early peas has decided not to reseed.

Lawrence Bente has decided to let a frost-killed fifteen acre field of peas stand as he used the peas as a nurse crop for Gibb's alfalfa. If he gets only a light yield of peas but a good stand of alfalfa, he will do well financially with his field.

Most of the cornfields in the town of Greenville are planted and in many of them the corn may be seen in rows. Farmers are preparing the ground for the planting of potatoes.

Greenville—William Menning will be on the road next week, buying a car load of Guernsey and Holstein young cows for P. E. Torrey, Platteville.

HOUSTON OIL GETS LARGEST PROFITS FROM NATURAL GAS

Company Owns All the Stock of the Houston Pipe Line Company

EDITION'S NOTE: (This is the twenty-eighth of a series of brief analyses by Mr. Hughes of the principal of stocks. The intent is not to recommend the purchase or sale of any particular stock but to give the investor such information as may enable him intelligently to chart his own course.)

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press New York—Although classed as an oil company and having large oil interests, the profitable part of Houston Oil company operations just now comes in their natural gas division. Houston Oil owns all the stock of the Houston Pipe Line company which has over 450 miles of main line pipe serving Houston, Galveston and other Texas communities.

The stock is a speculative favorite on the New York Stock exchange but has never paid a dividend. The shareholders, however, have been asked to approve a four for one split-up of the common stock and a 10 per cent stock dividend. The exact conditions under which this stock dividend is to be disbursed have not been settled but it is approved. Of course, theoretically a stock dividend gives nothing that the shareholders did not own before but they can realize cash by selling the shares received as the dividend in the open market and splitting up of the stock will increase the marketability.

Green Bay—Two of the finest pairs of twins that ever happened are now getting their lessons in the Finger Board School and playing with the other pupils on the school grounds. Each pair of twins is six or seven years of age, and either twin of each pair can be identified only by calling the child's name. The similarity ceases with age and the difference is that one pair of the twins wears dresses and the other pair wears trousers. The girls celebrated their birthday, Thursday, May 22, and the boys will celebrate their birthday on the fourth of July with their mothers, balloons, flags and bonfire. The girls are Martha and Margaret VanDenBerg, and the boys are Dan and Dan Reinmeister.

The company has a 6 per cent $100 cumulative preferred outstanding to the amount of nearly $9,000,000 on which the regular rate has been paid since 1912. This stock which is listed on the Baltimore Stock Exchange sells to yield around 6.75 per cent and seems reasonably well protected as to the dividend.

A better showing was made in the first quarter of 1930 when net was equivalent to $1.58 a share on the common against 81 cents a share in the first three months of 1929. This time the gas business produced net income sufficient to make up for the lower receipts from oil.

The future depends on recovery in the oil industry as to which the present outlook is favorable.

FEDERAL AID FOR REHABILITATION TO CONTINUE IN STATE

Special Bill Continuing Practice Three Years Passed by Senate

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The Senate has passed the vocational rehabilitation bill which provides a three-year continuation of federal aid for Wisconsin's rehabilitation of workers injured in industry.

The bill went back to the House of Representatives for agreement on several minor amendments made by the Senate. One of these provides that funds, allotted to one state but unused by it, may be reallocated to other states.

If the bill had not been passed, Uncle Sam's financial aid which has been available for this purpose for nine years would end on June 30, 1930.

Wisconsin started vocational rehabilitation work in 1918, three years before federal aid was made available. During the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1930, Wisconsin will receive $25,000.29 from the federal government for the work of turning its human liabilities into assets. It will continue to get this amount for the next three years under the bill just passed depending upon the relation of the Badger state's population to the population of the country as a whole.

The bill, as originally introduced by Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York, provided for constantly increasing amounts allocated for the work, with $1,250,000 available next year, and $250,000 added each year. Moreover, it called for a six year program.

Both of these liberal provisions were stricken out of the bill at the suggestion of the Bureau of the Budget, which had maintained that they were in conflict with the President's financial program. The six years were reduced to three, although the Budget recommended only two, and the authorization was kept at an annual $1,000,000.

SCHAFER FIGHTS HARD
Rep. John C. Schaefer of Milwaukee fought a long and hard battle to get the bill to its original form, in regard to the amount of money authorized introducing amendments similar to the portions of the bill struck out.

Wisconsin's vocational education leader, George P. Hambrecht of Madison, state director of vocational education; William F. Mankies of Madison, supervisor of rehabilitation for Wisconsin; and Dr. John Lapp of Marquette University, appeared before the House Committee of Education and urged the acceptance of the Schaefer amendments and the bills passage on the 6-year basis. Hambrecht is President of the National Association of State Directors of Vocational Education.

Wisconsin is this year spending $45,000 in addition to federal aid and Milwaukee, alone, is spending $5,000 for this work.

In its report on the bill, the House Committee on Education said: "It is an economic service in that it converts liabilities into assets."

This is apparently very true, for according to figures of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, the gain to the people of Wisconsin in increased earning power as a result of rehabilitation work during the eight years from 1921 to 1929 was $4,469,424.33, as against the total cost of the service, only $215,394.44.

During these eight years, the Badger state restored 1,551 disabled persons to wage-earning capacity, and raised their earning power 266 per cent higher after rehabilitation than it was before. The state paid on average of $136.21 for rehabilitating each person while the per capita increase in annual earnings after rehabilitation was $711.92.

Wind Greatest Hazard For East-West Ocean Flights

Paris —(AP)—A belief that more than twice the distance between Paris and New York must be allowed for before an attempt to cross the Atlantic by airplane from east to west can be made with any degree of safety, is held by Captain G. Voitureux, author of "Transatlantic Aerial Navigation."

Captain Voitureux has made a minute study of weather conditions over the north Atlantic and compiled a chart covering a whole year, and he concludes that wind forms 25 per cent of the odds against the east to west airman.

On 25 days out of every 100, he found, winds blow at 37 to 75 miles an hour, the average for the other days being 18 to 25 miles an hour, with 30 mile an hour winds very frequent. These winds on the north Atlantic are not at any time of the year constant, but most of the time are unfavorable to the airman going from Europe to the United States.

In calculating the distance, the airman will have to allow not only for considerable north and south drift, more difficult to gauge and correct over the water, but for perhaps as much vertical deviation, the plane continually rising and descending, so that in reality the airman is constantly winding round and round the imaginary straight line of his course. Captain Voitureux attributes the loss of so many planes attempting the east to west Atlantic

FLOWER SHOW WILL OFFER CASH PRIZES

Several Judges Will Be Engaged to Select Winners This Year

Cash prizes will be awarded to winners in the annual Flower and Garden show this year instead of bulbs, as has been the practice in the past. It is thought that this plan will be enthusiastically received by entrants in the contest, as the presentation of bulbs and seeds as prizes has been a source of dissatisfaction among contestants. Often the bulb awards provided by professional horticulturists, were of a variety not pleasing to the winner, or of a type with which the recipient was already over-supplied.

The cash prizes will be awarded this year right after the judging, a procedure which it is hoped will eliminate the confusion, experienced in former years, of distributing awards. If favorable weather brings about the blossoming of peonies by the week end of June 7 and 8, the show will be held on those days; if not, it will be held one week later, on June 14 and 15. Judging will start at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, prizes will be awarded immediately after, and the show will open to the public at 3 o'clock. The engaging of a number of judges instead of just one is an innovation which will greatly abbreviate the time usually devoted to judging the exhibits.

inate the confusion, experienced in former years, of distributing awards. If favorable weather brings about the blossoming of peonies by the week end of June 7 and 8, the show will be held on those days; if not, it will be held one week later, on June 14 and 15. Judging will start at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, prizes will be awarded immediately after, and the show will open to the public at 3 o'clock. The engaging of a number of judges instead of just one is an innovation which will greatly abbreviate the time usually devoted to judging the exhibits.

Fire Insurance the Bulwark of Trade

The volume of trade in the United States is estimated at more than 80 billion dollars annually. Probably 90 per cent of this is transacted on credit.

The underlying safeguard of this credit is Stock Fire Insurance, with more than $150,000,000,000 constantly at risk in the protection of burnable property in this country.

This background of $150,000,000,000 of protection against disaster makes commerce on its present gigantic scale possible.

Few indeed are the activities of the home or of business that are not benefited directly or indirectly by the stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance and the security that it affords.

Stock Fire Insurance is the silent partner in every enterprise—the Bulwark of Trade. It has rendered its service at a cost which on the average has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

JAPS WOULD REVISE TREATY PROVIDING SEALS PROTECTION

U. S. Herds Have Grown too Large, Claim—Threaten Japanese Fish Supplies

Tokio—(AP)—Uncle Sam's herds of fur-bearing seals in the north Pacific have grown so numerous under the kindly shield of a four-power treaty framed for their protection in 1911, and are devouring such quantities of the fish which Japan needs to help feed her teeming human population, that the Tokyo government is pressing Washington for revision of the international seal convention.

So effective has the protective agreement been, say the Japanese, that the beaches of Lufkannon, in the American-owned Pribilof Islands, of which the Japanese are poaching, are again almost as populous as in the golden age "before the sealers came."

Tokio contends, therefore, that the restriction on killing seals may be relaxed without threatening the herds with extinction and with great gain to Japan's fishing industry.

Diplomatic communication on this subject have been passing across the Pacific for months. The Japanese government, which joined with the United States, Russia and Great Britain in the 1911 convention, complains that the seals, nearly all of them American, cause a loss of 20,000,000 yen ($10,000,000) a year to Japanese fishing interests.

Under the benign protection of the convention, says this version, the American herds have grown in two decades from about 132,000 to nearly 1,000,000 voracious fish eaters that play havoc in the north Pacific waters, even breaking up great quantities of herring, cuttlefish and other delicacies of the sea that might grace Japanese tables.

The negotiations are beset by diplomatic perplexities, chiefly because the United States and Soviet Russia are not speaking officially and so cannot discuss revision of a treaty that theoretically binds them both.

Tokio, however, is pursuing the subject in hope that a three-power pact, involving the killing of more seals, can be patched up between Japan, America and Canada, which has inherited Great Britain's share in the seal question since she established legations in Washington and Tokyo.

The purpose of the convention of 1911 was to avert the threatened extinction of the north Pacific seal herds, which during 40 years of unrestricted hunting had dwindled from 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 to about 140,000. The treaty prohibits all pelagic sealing—that is, killing or capturing seals at sea—in the Pacific ocean north of 30 degrees north latitude, including the seas of Bering, Okhotsk, Kamchatka and Japan.

Seals may be killed only on the islands to which they repair each year for the mating season, and on those islands they are strictly under the control of the governments concerned and are killed and skinned only by government agents.

The treaty sets minimum figures for the American, Russian and Japanese herds and provides that there shall be no killing in any herd that drops below its limit, which is 100,000 for the American, 15,000 for the Russian and 6,500 for the Japanese.

When herds are above their respective limits each government determines the number to be killed in any season. The convention further provides a system of sharing all around, designed to equalize the sacrifices necessary to the protecting agreement.

CANADA WITHOUT HERDS

Great Britain—now Canada—is a party to the convention although possessing no seal herds, because much of the sealing in the unrestricted days was done by boats out of Canadian ports, manned chiefly by Scots.

Reports sent to the bureau of fisheries in Tokyo by its seal experts in the north state that all three herds are now far above their treaty minimums, that the American herds are between 800,000 and a million and the Russian and Japanese about 30,000 each.

It appears that in all the vast expanses of the Pacific there are just three places whither fur seals resort when the mating season comes in the spring.

These three places are rocky, bleak islands in the far north, the Pribilof Islands, a group of five owned by the United States, lying north of the Aleutian Islands chain; the Komandorsky Islands, off the coast of Kamchatka, belonging to the Soviet Union; and Robben Island (which the Japanese call simply "Seal Island"), near Cape Patience, part of Japan's share of Saghali.

The Pribilof herd is by far the largest, containing nine-tenths of the fur-bearing seals of the Pacific.

MAY LOSE INCREASE ON CHEESE DUTIES

Although Measure Is Passed by Senate, Point of Order May Kill It

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Post-Crescent Wash. Corps.

Washington—The increase in the duties on Swiss cheese and other cheeses won in the Senate and maintained by the tariff conferees may be lost by a point of order.

As the House of Representatives passed the bill, a duty of 7 cents a pound but not less than 35 percent ad valorem was put on all cheese and cheese substitutes.

The Senate raised the duty to 8 cents a pound but not less than 42 percent ad valorem. In doing this, however, they added an amendment reading: "cheese made of sheep's milk and commonly known as Romano or Pecorino, Romanella or Kefalotyri or Vine and Casu, 8 cents per pound; Feta, White, 5 cents per pound." It is difficult to learn just what kind of cheeses these are, but the disrespectful young men who are experts for the Senate Finance committee and the House Ways and Means committee always refer to them as "Copeland's stinking cheeses." Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York got the amendment referring to them.

The conferees agreed on a rate of 8 cents a pound but not less than 40 percent ad valorem, cutting out all reference to "Copeland's stinking cheeses."

Now the conferees have only three choices to make in working out differences in the tariff bill. They may accept the Senate rate, they may accept the House rate, or they may compromise on a rate not above the higher of the two or below the lower.

In agreeing upon 8 cents a pound but not less than 40 percent ad valorem for all cheeses and substitutes, therefore, the conferees thus placed a higher duty on "Copeland's stinking cheeses" than either the House rate or the Senate rate.

Murder at High Tide

By CHARLES G. BOOTH

SYNOPSIS: Who murdered Dan Parados? His symbol of luck, a jade phoenix, disappeared shortly before his death. Everyone of his lonely island estate is questioned. Motives are plentiful, for Parados was hated by all, but fruitful clues are few. Allen Hunt seeks evidence on his own account. He finds a newspaper with oil stains on it—perhaps from a gun. Claude Annersley had been seen with a similar paper, yet his alibi is good. Anatole Flique, a French detective, and Samuels, deputy attorney, seem baffled. On a rose Flique finds blood stains which are traced by a handkerchief to Grainger, a hired man. The detectives wonder if Grainger is shielding Annersley.

Chapter 11

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN" YOU did a good job with that handkerchief," Samuels conceded. "I'll keep it, if you don't mind."

"I am the principal agent of la Surete," Flique answered. "Let us proceed with our clues. That blackness on the carpet there—"

"Crude oil," Kulk informed us. "We'll check on that," Samuels grunted. "And then there's the phoenix."

"It is another of the little mysteries," Flique continued volubly. "And that price ticket for 35 cents in the dead hand of monsieur—that is yet another."

"The little man beamed upon Samuels. "But we have our laws. Come, I shall be your inward eye and you shall be the outward eye."

"Fair enough," Samuels grinned. "You might begin by telling us what brought you to San Lucas."

"Flique chuckled. "You have no there, my friend. I have been at the house three times during the past four months. It is an old story—25 years old. I speak of the robbery of the 'Banque du Midi.' You do not remember that robbery? And why should you? You have them every hour. But in my France c'est different. We have our artists of the crime. Such were those little ones, Jules Lacote, Ciceron Per, and le Balafre, 'The Scarred One.'"

"Bee and le Balafre," Samuels muttered. "Those names sound familiar."

"Ah, you think of those desperate ones who escaped from the diabolical seven months ago. Those are the two. In June of 1904, those three robbed the Banque du Midi in Marseilles. A million francs was secured and a patron of the bank who attempted resistance was shot. That patron—a merchant of antiques, like M. Hunt—died the next day. I shall tell you about him. Well, those three got away. I was then attached to the Marseilles police—and I was directed to secure their apprehension."

"Soon I received an information concerning two of those three—Ciceron Per and le Balafre. There was a combat, but those rascals were overcome and we took them away. But what of Jules Lacote? Messieurs, I cannot tell you."

"Well, those cannibals were sentenced to l'ile du Diable, where France sends her little ones to repent of their sins. But of Lacote and that million francs we hear nothing since. But what has all this to do with Anatole Flique in the home of M. Parados?"

Flique paused dramatically; and then, "Messieurs, I am here because of that jade phoenix."

"We could not have been more startled, Samuels shook his head. "Where does the phoenix come in?" he demanded tersely.

Flique continued, exuberantly cheerful again.

"It is an astonishing thing! That merchant of antiques recognized Jules Lacote, who shot him. Lacote, it seemed, had been intrigued by a piece of art in that merchant's shop and had bought it. You see? Must I tell monsieur what it was that Jules Lacote bought?"

"I guess you won't need to," Samuels muttered. "But it can't be the same phoenix."

"We shall see," and Flique shrugged. "But it is clear that this Lacote believed in the luck or he would not have spent a thousand francs on a trifle of jade."

"You have a description of this Jules Lacote?" Samuels asked.

"Oh, several," and Flique chuckled. "That he is tall and bland that he is dark and hook-nosed, and that he is fat and the color of blood. Ah, those descriptions, M. le Deputy!"

Flique chuckled again. "What are they? The merchant of antiques died saying that he had been shot by a man to whom he had sold a phoenix of jade—that was all. Poor fellow!"

"But what about le Balafre and Per?" Samuels persisted. "You must have got something out of them."

Flique smiled indulgently. "Monsieur does not understand. Le Balafre and Ciceron Per are not even the sentence of death. Instead, they are to go to l'ile du Diable until life is finished. Perhaps they will escape. And if they do their fingers will itch for what is left of those million francs, and they will kill like ten cats for the throat of the Jules Lacote. Messieurs, Flique's voice became a whisper. "Not for all the francs on earth would I be the betrayer of le Balafre and Ciceron Per now they have escaped! And now, M. le Deputy, do you perceive why those little ones did not describe to me that infamous Lacote?"

"I was glad I was not Jules Lacote," I was hearing chasing jade phoenixes ever since," Samuels wanted to know.

"I have seen many of them, monsieur," Flique beamed.

"What brought you here?"

Flique had been waiting for the question. He drew forth a wallet and extracted from it a sheet of paper which he presented to Samuels. A clipping from the classified columns of a French newspaper was pasted to the sheet.

"I can't read French," Samuels said irritably.

"M. l'Antiquaire will translate." A typewritten legend indicated that the clipping had been cut from the "Clarion du Matin," a Marseilles newspaper. I read the legend and then the clipping:

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN" If you are looking for a jade phoenix that was bought in Marseilles 25 years ago, you may find it in the home of Mr. Dan Parados. San Lucas Island, California."

Flique beamed agreeably at us whilst we digested this information. Samuels took the paper, stared at it, folded it slowly, and tucked it into a vest pocket.

"I'll keep this, if you don't mind," he said in a voice that had lost its timbre.

Did the French convict slay Parados? What does this clipping mean? See tomorrow's chapter.

POTENT BREW

Tacoma, Wash.—"A bomb" exploded the occupants of a local apartment house when a blast shook the building early one recent morning. Police investigated and found a shattered electric range, a kitchen chair splintered and an oven door blown off. But a bomb didn't cause the explosion. It was home brew which the owner had put in the oven and turned on the heat to make it cook quickly. The heat exploded the liquid.

WESTERN LIFE IS REAL PUZZLE TO ABYSSINIAN KING

Couldn't Understand Peaceful Elections When He Visited Europe

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris—When Ras Tafari, who had been co-ruler of Abyssinia for many years, recently proclaimed himself king of Kings, successor to the Queen of Sheba, and descendant of King Solomon, he didn't surprise his friends in France. On his visit to this country several years ago, Ras Tafari made it quite plain that he might be expected to do unexpected things from a political point of view.

"What good is an army to the head of a state unless he can use it to fight for him," the Ras remarked as he departed puzzled by the strange ways of western civilization. Western ideas were just too much for the Ras. He could not understand the need for peaceful elections, and he expressed himself accordingly.

DEAD IN BATTLE
Remembering this, his French friends were not surprised when they heard that in the political intrigue and bloodshed which enveloped Abyssinia for some time, Ras Tafari should emerge as ruler. The methods by which he accomplished this coup still remain something of a mystery in Europe. The Ras assumed sole power on the death of his aunt, the Empress Zaudita, who was reported to have died from shock when she was informed that her husband had been killed in battle. How- ever, the court physician, Dr. Garabedian, after removing himself to a safe retreat, has declared that the Empress didn't die from shock, but from poison. And, intimates the physician, the Ras knows who administered it.

When Tafari, then regent of Abyssinia, visited Europe to have a look at the workings of western civilization, he attracted a great deal of attention. A colorful figure, tall, straight, black-headed and with piercing eyes he moved through the crowds that surrounded him with majestic calm.

On his arrival in Paris, he was greeted at the railroad station with all ceremony and escorted through the streets of Paris by President Millerand and Premier Poincare. He was shown all the wonders of the western world, but the things that interested him most were new military weapons. He was taken in a submarine, and given a flight in the latest type airplane. Troops with great guns polished were lined up for his inspection.

While it was apparent that there was little in the visit which inspired the Ras to enthusiasm with the possible exception of new military weapons—he was always polite and lavish in his acknowledgement of favors rendered him. He gave jewels to many who won his favor, and to minor officials who escorted him he usually gave an elephant tusk. To several of the higher officials, he gave live zebras as a token of his esteem.

QUIT THE COUNTRY

During his visit France had a political crisis. The national elections returned a huge majority for the Socialists and Premier Poincare had to resign. President Millerand called upon Edouard Herriot, as Socialist leader, to form a government, but Herriot refused because the Socialists felt that Millerand, as president, had out-spoken-ly supported Poincare during the campaign, and a president of France is not supposed to have political leanings in office. So Millerand had to resign.

This was all explained to Ras Tafari. It meant nothing at all to him. Here, overnight, he found the country with a new president and a new premier. Yet there had been no fighting, no bloodshed. His friends, Millerand and Poincare, who had greeted him on his arrival were no longer in control of the country.

The Ras could understand this; but he couldn't understand why they should step out without fighting for their jobs. Then he made his prophetic remark: "What good is an army to a ruler of a state unless it can fight for him."

In the kindest manner, his French hosts attempted to explain it. But the Ras shook his head. No battles, nobody killed, not even a shot fired. With all that magnificent army, that strong navy, and that excellent air service, Millerand and Poincare had quit cold.

Sorrowfully, Ras Tafari prepared to quit the country. Surrounded by his large retinue, and distributing zebras, jewels, and elephants tusks on his way, he went home to live his own life.

Talks To Parents

A DANGER?
By Alice Judson Peale

Many a mother who is fully aware of the benefits to be derived from nursery school or kindergarten keeps her child at home because she is afraid that the early separation will lead to an estrangement between herself and her child.

She feels that excellent as the nursery school or kindergarten experience may be, she would, through it, lose her child and that her child, in turn, would be deprived of the mothering which he needs.

The danger seems to me an unreal one. The average mother is so involved in housekeeping that she really devotes far less time to her child than she likes to think that she does.

Furthermore, she is often so bored with the monotony of baby care and so frked with the limitations imposed by it upon her own activities that she gives her child scant personal attention.

It often happens that the mother who has been irritable and impatient when she had to take care of her child all day and every day gives him much more of that friendly response and real mothering which

SKAT LEAGUE CONGRESS WILL ATTRACT 8,000

Madison — (P)—Approximately 5,000 members from the United States and Canada are expected to attend the 33rd Annual Congress of the North American Skat League here June 7 and 8, Edward Trench, Madison, has announced.

Prizes totalling $2,725 will be awarded according to attendance, Mr. Trench said. Last year the convention was held in Milwaukee.

DR. FLECK MOVES HERE FROM MADISON

Dr. H. Fleck and his mother, Mrs. L. C. Fleck, Madison, have moved to Appleton to take up permanent residence. Dr. Fleck has been engaged in research work for the Kimberly Clark company for some time.

Chinese immigration into the Philippines decreased about 10 per cent in 1929, the bureau of customs reported.

It is quality, not quantity, that counts in these matters. It seems to me that the relationship between mother and child is far more often helped than hurt by partial separation.

It would be illuminating to have insight into what lies behind this fear that, through being sent to a nursery school or a kindergarten a child will be deprived of the mothering that he needs.

I suspect that often there is not so much true maternal concern as a possessiveness which fears competition.
